WILL ROGERS SEES CHANCE TO LEARN COOLIDGE'S AIMS

(Special To The News)

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal.,

March 11.—Good chance now

for President

Hoover to smoke Mr.

future, offer

him this Su-vacancy.

If Mr. Coolidge refused to take it, it would show that he had other ideas in his head, because it's been pretty well established that once you do go on that bench, people don't like the idea of you leaving it to come back and run for even president.

But poor Mr. Hoover, whoever he appoints, that senate will hold a two weeks clinic over the body. Just off hand, Lindbergh would be the only one I know of that they might let pass. And I'll bet there would be a couple object to him.

Yours,

WILL ROGERS.

By GEORGE R. HOLMES

WASHINGTON, March 11.—The Government of which he was such an integral part for two-score years ceased its activities today and stood in salute to William Howard

Taft, the genial indly man who without fanfare and without trumpets achieved

what no other American ever did—the Presidency and the Chief Justiceship.

Flags at half-mast throughout the city fluttered in a soft spring breeze

this morning as his body was borne from the modest brick home in Washington avenue to the Capitol.

There for a short time it lay in state under the great gray dome while thousands of the plain people filed by his casket in silent tribute.

He was a popular man in Washington, was Justice Taft. His infectious chuckle, his unfeeling humor and his serene philosophy were as much a part of Washington as the monument. Political opponents he may have had; of enemies he had none.

From the book-shelfed library

where in life he spent so much time his body was borne today on a cal-son to "The Hill." The muffled beat of drums and the sadly beautiful strains of the dirge awakened the populace to the realization that a president was dead.

Pennsylvania Avenue, that mile-long stretch that has been the stage for so much American history, echoed once more to the tramp of marching men and the staccato clatter of

Russia Orders Famous Fair Closed

(International News Service)

MOSCOW, March 11.—The century-old fair at Nijna-Novgorod is being closed on orders of the Commissariat of Trade. It is regarded as an unnecessary institution in these days when private trade is rapidly becoming extinct and government trusts have no need to advertise.

In Czarist days, and even in the early days of the revolution, the fair was the mecca for thousands of merchants of the East, who came with silks from Persia, rugs and curiosities from Bokhara and jade from China. Its fashion show and promenade was the opening event of the social season for the Czar's court and the nobility from all over Russia.

Rear Admiral Byrd returned from

THE SCHROEDER JURY

Joseph D. Kelley, Laborer, Wayne Township.
C. Leroy Shira, Engineer, First Ward.
J. E. McDonald, Repairman, Ellwood City.
E. C. Porter, Contractor, Wayne Township.
Jennie Curtis, Housekeeper, Union Township.
Samuel Patterson, Farmer, Plaingrove Township.

Irene Schroeder will not have an entirely male jury.
One woman, at least, Mrs. Jennie Curtis, will sit in judgment on the Trigger Woman, and if the usual attempt of female defendants to beguile jurors with feminine wiles is used, there will be at least one woman on the jury who can interpret such actions better than a mere man.

Whether the selection of a woman on the jury was a victory for the commonwealth or the defense is a debatable question in the court room today. The commonwealth feels that Mrs. Curtis is capable of rendering a fair, impartial verdict, remembering that if the evidence warrants it, a death penalty should be handed down. The defense seems to feel that they were fortunate in getting Mrs. Curtis on the jury, and which side has the better of argument will not be known until that day, two weeks hence, perhaps, when by its unanimous vote the jury will decide whether or not the life of Irene Schroeder will be taken to balance the taking of the life of Corporal Brady Paul.

Six Are Secured

At the noon recess today in Lawrence County Court room number one, fifty per cent of the jury had been accepted. Just before the recess was taken, Samuel Patterson a farmer of Plaingrove Township was accepted as number six.

For a time this morning it began to appear doubtful that any jurors would be accepted before noon. For opinions, for scruples against capital punishment, and in some cases for no apparent reason, jurors were turned back and the number stood at four. These were selected Monday.

Five Left In Panel

But five jurors remain in panel number one, 55 having been exhausted. With the panel exhausted it will then be necessary to call into court room number one those jurors who were excused in courtroom number two, where William Grimm is on trial for the murder of Clark Rea. Of this panel 10 were secured, and the excused jurors from courtroom number one taken into number two.

The strain of Monday's session seemed to have had its effect upon the Trigger Woman this morning.
From the opening of court she sat, bundled up in a heavy coat, with her head drooping. At times she complained to her counsel that she was sick, and at 10:20 Judge Hildebrand ordered a recess and Irene was taken into the law library to recuperate.

Further report of proceedings at court in the case of Irene Schroeder, are to be found on page 15.

Will Prosecute Youths Who Send In Grass Alarms

Three Unnecessary Alarms Are Sounded Monday Because Of Small Fires

Fire Chief Charles H. Lynn stated this morning that in the future, those who send in alarms for grass fires, which are of no consequence, will be considered in the same category as persons who send in false alarms and will be prosecuted accordingly.

Three alarms were sounded unnecessarily yesterday, an investigation revealing that none of the fires for which the alarms were sounded, were necessary, as the grass fires were in open fields and not endangering buildings.

When an alarm is sounded for a grass fire except in certain sections of the Seventh ward, three pieces of apparatus respond. It costs the taxpayers money every time a piece of apparatus is called out, and also endangers the lives of the firemen.

Chief Lynn asks people who discover grass fires to call the Central station by telephone. When the nature of the blaze is discovered, the proper equipment will be sent to combat it.

FINAL TRIBUTE IS GIVEN TO TAFT AT WASHINGTON

avenue that William Howard Taft rode just 21 years ago last Tuesday to become the twenty-seventh president of the United States. Upon that occasion there was a blizzard that cut off all communication and left the country in ignorance for days that he had taken the oath of office. Today the air had the caressing touch of spring and the whole country will listen in this afternoon when his body is committed to a soldiers' grave in Arlington. Such is the difference of 21 years.

The city was hardly stirring this morning when the grim caisson rolled up Wyoming avenue and paused in front of the square-built brick house. A detail of non-commissioned officers from the army, navy and marine corps bore the casket from the home and placed it on the flag-draped artillery rack.

Military Escort.
Drawn by six horses it moved quickly off, followed by the army and navy bands, and a military and naval escort that included all branches of the service. There was a battalion of infantry, a battalion of field artillery, a battalion of marines and a company of blue-jackets, commanded by a major general, Fred W. Sladen, former commandant at West Point. The cortege moved out of the quiet street and into Connecticut avenue, down to Dupont Circle, and thence through Massachusetts avenue to Sixteenth street.

teenth and H streets, within sight of the White House; circled the treasury and down Pennsylvania avenue to the Capitol. Despite the early hour there were crowds along the curbs, bare-headed and reverential.

On Historic Spot.

At the Capitol, the body bearers bore the coffin from the plaza up the great stone steps into the rotunda and deposited it on the same catafalque that supported the bodies of Lincoln, Garfield, McKinley and Harding.

Soon thereafter the doors were thrown wide and past the bier filed the first of thousands. Many of them had stood in line since the dawning hours in order to pass quickly through and steal a final look at a great American figure.

Only a few hours were allotted to capitol ceremonies—too few for the thousands who wished to pay their last respects to the jovial man who had so many friends.

At noon the doors were closed, and the body taken again through Pennsylvania avenue and Sixteenth street to the church where for a quarter of a century Justice Taft worshipped his God.

A simple service at the church, devoid of eulogy, and an even more simple service at the grave in Arlington this afternoon marks the passing of a notable figure.

Thousands Pass Bier

WASHINGTON, March 11.—The national capital where he lived and labored and achieved more high honors than the American people have ever given to any man bade William Howard Taft, twenty-seventh president and tenth chief justice, an affectionate and sorrowful farewell today.

Ten thousand people, representing every class, creed and color, passed by his bier in respectful homage today during the few brief hours that his body lay in state under the great dome of the capitol.

Outside a drizzling spring rain fell intermittently on the long lines of people who stood patiently for hours in order to pass quickly through the rotunda and steal a last fleeting glance at the features composed in death.

Several thousand others were disappointed at failing to get through before the honor guard of soldiers, sailors and marines closed the casket at noon.

From the capitol, the body of the former president was placed again on the flag-draped black caisson and down the roll of drums carried down Pennsylvania avenue for the last time. The procession, from the capitol grounds, passed through Pennsylvania avenue and Sixteenth street to All Souls Unitarian church at Harvard street, where President Hoover, the justices of the supreme court, the diplomatic corps and the rank of official Washington were gathered for the brief services before commitment to the grave.

in history because the world had the privilege of "listening in."

Although Admiral Byrd was more than 10,000 miles away on the other side of the world, his words could be heard distinctly at intervals by radio listeners. Part of Byrd's reply to Ochs greeting welcoming him back to civilization from his South pole expedition faded away at times.

Could Hear Perfectly

The broadcast was conducted in cooperation with the Amalgamated Wireless Company of Sydney, Australia.

"I can hear you perfectly" said Admiral Byrd after his two-way conversation between the intrepid explorer and Ochs had been established.

"I am overwhelmed, and I want to tell you that it is great to hear your voice again," Byrd added.

Then Admiral Byrd's voice faded and his remarks could be heard only indistinctly to radio listeners although most of his conversation came in quite clearly at the company's station.

Welcomed Back

"It is my privilege to welcome you back to civilization," Ochs told Admiral Byrd. "The whole world is thanking God that you and your gallant crew are back safe and sound. You have made the world smaller and you have added an empire to the territory of the United States. You have planted the stars and stripes close to the North pole and to the South pole. You have won a place among the immortals and you are one of America's bravest sons."

"It's certainly fine of you to say these things," Byrd answered. Byrd was told the hook-up was the biggest party line that ever had been in existence and his hearty laugh was heard as plainly as if he had been in the room.

MUSIC CLUB PRESENTS SPLENDID PROGRAM

The regular meeting of The Music Club was an event of Monday evening at The Castleton Ballroom. Mrs. John L. Emery as hostess presented an excellent programme.

The first number was given by the trio composed of Katherine Nessel, pianist, Elsa Von Moltke Emery, violinist, and John Patton, cellist. They displayed fine balance, exquisite beauty of tone, and a keen understanding of their instruments resulting in a lovely ensemble. Mrs. William J. Caldwell who possesses a beautiful soprano voice sang with ease and rendered her numbers with artistic interpretation. Her first group included German and Italian numbers and her second group composed well chosen English numbers. Her efficient accompanist was Miss Helen Ewing.

Mrs. C. B. Randall gave an interesting talk on an old Psalm which she exhibited at the meeting. The Psalm is 200 years old, the printing having been done by hand in the eighteenth-century. The club is indebted to Mrs. Randall for this most interesting feature on the programme.

Two piano solos were played by Katherine Nessel Allen with splendid technique and style and a marked concentration of tone and quality.

A duet for two violins was most effectively and artistically rendered by Elsa Von Moltke Emery and George Richardson.

William McCombs will be in charge of the next programme at The Castleton on March 31 instead of March 24.

BOY SCOUTS CELEBRATE

THOUSANDS of Boy Scouts are joining in the national celebration of the twentieth birthday of the organization in the United States. There are some 4,000,000 of them in this country at the present time.

The best tribute to the benefits they have received from membership is probably to be found in the enthusiasm of their parents. If Junior suddenly decides to help his mother with the baking and cooking of breakfasts and dinners, or takes a pair of dad's old shoes to the cellar to put new soles and heels on them, or devotes a whole afternoon to the repair of his sister's toys, it may not be a case for the doctor, but just a drive for one or more new scout merit badges.

Angelic conduct also is a fair sign that the time has arrived for periodical certification by one or both parents that the youngster has obeyed the scout law and oath and conducted himself in a befitting manner during the last few months.

With its call to the out-of-door life, nature study, health and character building, and devotion to helpful and useful tasks of many kinds, the scout organization has provided a constructive outlet for the energy of growing boys which has been marvelous in its results. Its growth has been great in the twenty years since its establishment in the United States; and the prospect is for even greater development and service. In observing the anniversary it is well that we should give full credit to the enthusiasm and devotion of the adults who have directed this effort so successfully.

COVERED WAGON CENTENNIAL

This is the centennial year of the covered wagon, which has all but passed as a means of transportation, although it may still be seen in some isolated sections of the northwest.

On April 10, 1930, it will be just 100 years since the first covered wagon train left St. Louis for Oregon. Calling attention to the anniversary in a proclamation urging the nation to observe the period between April 10 and December 29, as a "covered wagon centennial," President Hoover recently declared that the covered wagon paved the way for the settlement of the Pacific coast and northwest country.

The old Oregon trail still remains intact. It is now well marked and well improved from Portland, Ore., to its junction with the Lincoln highway in Nebraska. The latter was in fact one of its first units, although not so generally recognized.

Thousands have traversed the old Oregon trail in the modern automobile. These know that the covered wagon pioneers accomplished what today would be considered an almost impossible task. Monuments and markers fix places of historic interest along the trail, including Massacre Rocks, scene of a desperate Indian battle.

The motor car flits in a few hours across sagebrush messas the ox-drawn covered wagon required days to traverse. Yet there are pleasant spots along the trail. It is as thrilling today to view the Columbia river from the heights at The Dalles, in Oregon, as it must have been to the trail-weary pioneers of 1831.

There are in all probability spots on the trail more lonesome today than in covered wagon days, for then there were great herds of buffalo, antelope and abundance of game. Water was the greatest problem of the pioneer.

This is an age when we boast of modern achievements. Yet a trip either by motor car or airplane over the old Oregon trail country compels the thought there will never be another achievement quite like that recorded by the trail breakers in their restless western trek. The centennial anniversary is worth recalling for that, if for no other reason.

INCONSEQUENTIAL OPINIONS

Some Americans have a tendency to be touchy and oversensitive, and to attach too much importance to what is said about America and Americans by writers and speakers of other lands. The mere fact that the opinion expressed is a foreign dictum gives it, in their eyes, an importance to which it is rarely entitled.

Obscure visitors, minor novelties and unknown penny-a-liners from Europe all have their fling at this country and its people, and immediately some over here become as hot under the collar as if their opinions really mattered. Scores of young men and women who could not qualify for a job on an American newspaper or earn their salt in a live business house have succeeded in setting oversensitive souls by the ears merely because what they said was cabled across the Atlantic.

Sensitiveness to these frothy criticisms often blunts one's perceptions in regard to matters of real importance. A satirical diatribe cabled over by some Fleet street hack writer so enrages some Americans that they momentarily ignore the cordiality of the official relations of the United States and England. The danger of such meaningless criticism is that the obscurist scribbler has it in his power to neutralize the good feeling that should grow out of manifestations of good-will in diplomatic affairs.

Just as it is possible to throw a brickbat farther than a bouquet, unfavorable criticism always has the widest circulation. Europeans are constantly admiring American achievements and attempting to emulate them, but these praises rarely register over here. Under the common definition of "news" as the unusual, foreign criticism favorable to the United States should be front page stuff by now.

ENDURING ROUNDS

Since the mayor of Baltimore discovered that flagpole sitting was a sign of the pioneer spirit there has been a singular decline in contests to determine who can stay awake longest. There is a marathon dance contest in Detroit, but it had to keep going for more than three months before it could attract the widespread interest and disgust that the promoters of these affairs insist upon. Nutley, not to be denied its paragraph in the history of folly, has its "stay awake and listen" contest, the result of an offer of a prize to the person who can listen to a radio loud speaker and stay awake the longest.

The return of the six-day bicycle races to Madison Square Garden brings durability back to New York in its most familiar form. Spectators who sit up all night for the sake of a few sprints have more excitement than comes in the lifetime of a flagpole sitter, but they have not much better to offer in the way of explanation to those untouched by the passion for durability. The spectators at a flagpole-sitting championship or a rocking chair contest come and go; the galleries at the six-day races are fixed, set, frozen, determined to sit as long as men can pedal. There is no better evidence of the bond that durability creates.—The New York Sun.

You can have your ups and downs and still be on the level.

The bolshevistic complex existed in the early days, but it was called envy then.

MANNERS

A New Jersey high school has a "good manners campaign." Posters with slogans are hung about the school. Assembly talks and discussions are features. That's an idea that ought to spread and premeate. Real manners are never merely on the surface. They go deep. Manners add to human happiness.

CONFESSION

There is much bunk under the label of "confession." A suspect, kept awake by the police for 60 hours—a moron to begin with—will finally confess anything to get a little sleep. Some police officers think such methods are smart. They are not. They are stupid.

Then again we read "confessions" in magazine tales. They are anonymous or under assumed names. The word "confession" is designed to draw interest. Of course the "confession" is merely fiction under another name.

Confession is too good a word, too sacred a word to tamper with. When one really confesses he usually does it at the end of calm and unhurried thinking.

AS TO DOING IT TODAY

Much unhappiness has been brought about by the driving policy that keeps us in a continual hurry in our efforts to put off nothing until tomorrow that can be done today. Just why the rush nobody can quite say. Nobody is going to live very long or do very much at best. We look down on the Spaniard whose slogan seems to be "tomorrow." And on the average the Spanish people—both South Americans and Europeans—are happier than North Americans. Why do everything today? Perhaps what you are worrying about won't have to be done at all if you put it off until tomorrow.

DANGER CLOTHES

Specialists in the department of angler comes out with advice to mothers to dress their children in green. These colors will attract the rushing motor driver's eyes and prevent an accident. It might help. It would also be worth while for the motorist to drive like a normal human instead of an insane patient.

REMEMBRANCE

Susan B. Anthony would be 110 years old if she were alive today. How many women stop to remember the great pioneer in the battle for suffrage and other "women's rights"? Not many remember, for we are a forgetful people. Susan B. Anthony gave to women 50 years of courageous fighting. Practically everything she fought for has been won. Just what women have done with their "rights" is not exactly the same question. Let us hope Miss Anthony did not live in vain.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

WHY THE SCOTCH? In England and in the United States it is the Scotsman who is the proverbial tightwad. In France, on the other hand, "Scotch hospitality" means everything in the house for the guest.

When the Frenchman wants to castigate a "loner"—a fellow who drinks alone to save money—he dubs him a "Swiss."

Sometimes he calls him an "Auvergnat," an inhabitant of that rocky central plateau of France, where tradition has it that the sheep must sharpen their noses in order to get at the grass.

It would be interesting to know just why a Scot should be accused of being so close.

Oil Merger Turns Thoughts Of Public To Old Trust Case

Decree Of Nearly 20 Years Ago Dissolving Standard Oil Constituents Recalled By Many Persons As Two Companies Prepare To Unite

Belief that the United States Government is likely to make new history in connection with anti-trust laws causes the public to study the proposed merger of the Standard Oil of New York and the Vacuum Oil Company. The chief question is whether this plan would be a violation of the decree entered nearly 20 years ago, ordering the various subsidiaries of Standard Oil to separate from the parent company. A possible change in public sentiment toward large corporations is suggested during the debate.

It is observed by the UTICA OBSERVER-DISPATCH that in the proposed merger "the corporation will rank third, or perhaps even second among the world's oil companies" while the Standard Oil of New Jersey will retain first place. The merger would create a company with total assets rivaling those of Royal Dutch Shell, the only foreign concern comparable in size with the American oil giants. The Utica paper believes that "public opinion is unquestionably against reintegration of the old Standard Oil combine, although merger of these two companies may not be contrary to the public interest."

Weekly Health Talk By Health Secretary

"Among the excavations at Pompeii is the figure of a man who stood at his post at the front of a building which it was his duty to guard. Refusing to leave his station, he preferred to remain loyal to his obligation rather than flee, and was consequently destroyed. In this manner he exhibited the one quality which above all others has obtained the plaudits of men," said Doctor Theodore B. Appel, Secretary of Health, today.

"As against this magnificent and heroic exhibition of loyalty may be placed the recent instance of a middle-aged man who for twenty years held a confidential position in a large organization and who was convicted of selling trade secrets to a competing firm.

"Two days ago one of his fellow townsmen berated that unfortunate man for his traitorous conduct and then immediately began a ten minute oration on the subject of loyalty, incidentally crediting himself with his fair share of this much valued characteristic.

"Nor can it be denied that in matters of business the eloquent gentleman did display loyalty to a marked degree, but unfortunately that is where it stopped. Forgetting the fundamental principle that not only charity but loyalty begins at home, he had turned his back upon it, so far as his own body and health were concerned, by disregarding the basic requirements of nature. Today he lies in a hospital a very sick man—a sad example of one who was loyal to everything but himself.

"It is indeed difficult to understand why so many persons imagine that loyalty is circumscribed by friendship and business. And conversely, that one is not being disloyal when day in and day out he outrages his own body by the practice of unwise and devitalizing habits. The facts are quite opposite, as the near sick, half sick and totally sick thousands who have got themselves in that fix through careless living, most emphatically attest.

"It would thus appear to be an excellent thing for many persons who are now entirely satisfied with their present method of expressing loyalty to take stock and in this way discover whether they are loyal to their own well being. Loyalty to the government, to one's friends and to business represents a high degree of citizenship, but the first obligation in this regard is being loyal to one's self. Health, happiness and longevity demand no less.

Rev. Henderson Appreciative
To The News:

I wish to thank Mrs. Coslett of Wilkensburg, Pa., for her very kind interest in the Union Baptist church, recently up for sale. I wish to thank the Bible class of the church for the donation about the rent. It did appear that such "concern" from afar was a challenge to New Castle. It was not. The good people of New Castle are true and loyal. It was not their fault. It was ours. The reason for the crisis was in our attempt to hold ourselves to the respect of others. We know to appeal meant a certain loss and anybody or institution must suffer loss when forced to reveal facts about their personal affairs. No self respecting people would want that.

I have as leader of the people decided from making a statement because that would savor of preservation of personal leadership. That would appear selfish. I knew the public would not be concerned whether the minister's life insurance lapsed just so the fire insurance on the church was intact. It did not care if the constables levied on the parsonage so long as the sheriff did not descend upon the church; it did not care whether he was embarrassed by debt so long as the church was not humiliated. Men may live but cause lights in the parsonage burned so long as the lights in the church were not turned off. It did not care whether he had so long as the church had coal. Water in the minister's home was not near so important as having water in the church. That was right. Men may live but cause must live. Men may be comfortable but causes must be. Men may suffer and causes not. But never a cause suffering without men suffering.

New Castle has arisen to save the church. It has responded nobly. It knows that Lazarus cannot be raised by imported help until the home folks roll away the stone. Now it appears to be a case of charity. It is often said of the negro "he pays for what he wants; begs for what he needs and steals what he can get away with." To reverse is true in our case. We have begged for what we want, we prefer to pay for what we need and never steal nor misappropriate. We want the church because we need it.

It represents ideals. It is our work shop in which we work to develop character. We want our people to be better. They want to be better. To some the Union Baptist church represents the strivings of an almost whole life. To some it is God localized. God has found there as much a local habitation as when the word was made flesh. To lose this little church would be to lose that much God in New Castle. To decrease the forces of righteousness in the city mean only one thing. Increase the police force which shall be a right force of the police force. Which shall it be a safety department or a security department?

Our church is comprised of honest, humble, working folk. The little maid has had to tell the Master of the Great Cure. They have taken hold of the horns of the altar with calloused hands. They have toiled all day and sought solace in prayer in church at nightfall. They have worshipped with willing spirits and weak flesh. I have heard them pray. Always they thank God for a place to worship. Always they have been grateful that the doors are not closed. You can never know what an open door means to the negro. That to him means not favors but opportunity. Now remove that place of worship and you have a place of doubts and misgivings and it all means no God. Few people know that the blessing of the old Bible was prosperity, few can appreciate that the blessing of the new is adversity. The individual may see it. The mass cannot. Our problems is to save New Castle for God.

We hope we do not have to accept the task of saving God for New Castle. We bemoan not the building. We mourn for shattered ideals and shaken faith. We know that cement blocks and stucco are material that are not immaterial. We know that the platform is not the pulpit. They too shall pass away. We are anxious about the unseen it abides. After all, we may move out to another location, but will God?

I have not only heard our people pray I have heard them sing. Last night they sang "I Love the Kingdom Lord." That to him was fundamental but when they struck the next verse "I love Thy Church, O God" something happened. God was brought nearer and they sang it with mixed emotions. The biggest thing the colored people have is the church. We have those who work at banks, but not in them. We have no insurance companies in New Castle, no rentals, no factories, no mills, no clothing stores, no railroads, no newstands, no schools no nothing in New Castle. A race that has nothing but necessities cannot make much contribution to the community. The negro is only the class of people that is monopolizing religion. There should be no competition in their field. We are investing in religion but we are mindful of the ideals of religion. We are not asking for a place to shunt and dance and do nothing. But a place to instill in our people the things that make for larger life.

We are entrusting them to live humbly, walk humbly, give a square deal at work, not eye service nor mere pleasers but in answer to good conscience. To strive to live and not make a living. Give the world a life, to not only pay people from whom you hope compensation but give out to those that you know can't give back. To always do the honorable thing. Be dependable. If you can't work tomorrow notify instead of signify. The church has stressed "Don't be a working man but be a man working." After all what is done in the alleys of life count on the main street. What our church has striven to do is to make no apology for over 3000 negroes being here but to see to it that they do not have to apologize for their conduct and behavior.

God grant that every negro may bless and not curse. Be a blessing and not a curse. Help and not hinder. Give and not steal. Talk less and do more. That is our job through the church.

May the church be saved.

Peter's Adventures

A HARD-SHELLED BABY

"Good gracious, who is that?" Peter pointed to a group of funny little creatures that looked like nothing he had ever seen unless—Peter stoned. Yes, the queer things made him think of nuts, nuts on legs. No two of the little creatures were shaped just alike—one was fat, one was thin; this one had three corners, this one had four. Some were green, some were brown. A few hopped. More jumped. Others leaped over each other.

"Hoy-o-my-thumbs!" cried Peter. "Say, Biffer, what can it be that those two are carrying between them?"

Peter's question was answered by a squeaky little voice. One of the nuts on legs was speaking.

"Bet you a blade of grass, not many of you have ever seen a Frog-Hopper baby."

"Say, Biffer, what can it be that those two are carrying between them?"

"Some folks say 'tis the juice we've sucked from a plant, others are sure it is a sort of glue we manufacture. You may make any guess you please, the truth is our secret. I will tell you this much however. By and by the foam will harden, will make a shell for baby. Then one fine day little Frog-Hopper will wake up and grow angry at finding himself sealed up tight. 'Crack!' will go the hard shell. Out will pop little Frog-Hopper, a little bug in a great big world."

Next: "Hop-o-My-Thumbs."

Every Building in Pennsylvania

Property owners—individually and collectively—create the conditions which determine the cost of their fire insurance.

To establish Fire Insurance Rates for the various properties in your state in keeping with their individual conditions requires careful measurement and estimate of the fire hazards in practically every commercial building in Pennsylvania.

Inspection and Rating Bureaus

Consider the task of surveying practically every commercial building in this state—with details of construction, occupancy, protection and exposure kept on file.

Even then you have an incomplete idea of the inspection and rating services involved in establishing fire insurance rates.

This is the job done by the Underwriters' Association of the Middle Department, Philadelphia Board of Fire Underwriters (Philadelphia only), Philadelphia Suburban Underwriters' Association, and the Board of Fire Underwriters of Allegheny County (Pittsburgh and vicinity) with their extensive staffs of trained engineers.

Engineering Standards and Laboratory Tests

Engineering standards published by the National Board of Fire Underwriters and researches and tests of the Underwriters' Laboratories pertaining to the strength and usefulness of materials and devices are available to these rating organizations.

Should an owner desire to improve his property where standard conditions do not already prevail, information showing him how to do it will be supplied free of charge directly through his insurance agent or broker. Constructive work of this character results in reducing hazards.

A Free Service

The above rating organizations are constantly advising property owners and communities as to specifications for new buildings or changes in old ones—the installation of fire protective devices—community fire prevention programs—and all fire safety activities. All of this service is free.

Public use of these and other measures of conservation afforded by Stock Fire Insurance is a principal factor in the constant decline in the average fire insurance rate in this country for more than twenty years.

The Parent Problem

by GARRY C. MYERS, Ph.D.

Discuss Sex Truthfully With Child

You read from books, magazines and newspapers, advice on how to get best results in guiding children's conduct. You are told, for instance, to answer kindly and frankly all your child's questions from the time he can merely ask them by a grunt or gesture.

But suppose you have not answered all his questions honestly; suppose that when, at an early age, he had asked you where babies came from, you replied with the story of the stork, or with some other myth; or, suppose in reply to his inquiry about the need of a father you told him not to ask about such things or made him feel he should not, or gave him some misleading answer.

Say the child now is 12 years old, and you are aware that you had erred. Undoubtedly you worry and condemn yourself, and merely wish in vain that your child might go through the earlier years again.

Cheer up, fellow parent. Cease to scold yourself. You doubtless did the best you knew. Wait for a time when you feel most calm and self-controlled and when your child seems most companionable with you. Then say to him something like this: "When you were about three years old you asked me where babies came from, and at different times for several years thereafter, you asked me similar questions. About two years ago, one evening when you were about to go to bed, you asked me why there must be a father."

"You know now that I did not want to deceive you, but I thought my way of answering then was the best for you. My father and mother answered me in this fashion, and they were kind and loving to me just as I want to be to you. They thought they were doing right, just as I thought I was doing right. But now I think I make a mistake. I am sorry."

As you very well know, I should have told you that the baby grows in its mother's body. Concerning the father's place in creating new life, I should have told you that a sperm, a very, very tiny cell from the father's body, must join with a very, very tiny cell in the mother's body to begin the growth in her body of the new life, the baby's."

Each parent will have his own best way of stating these facts.

Before making these confessions to the child you might feel the need of reading some good text book on biology, or some such books as "Sex Education" by Maurice Biglow, or "Growing Up" by Karl Schweinitz, or "Parents and Sex Education" by Benjamin Gruenberg.

Following your conference with the child you might want to read with him portions from the books, and suggest he read more from them alone. Assure the child that he may feel free to come to you with any question he may have; lose no opportunity to beautify and idealize the father-mother relationship.

Now that you have made a clean breast of the matter, your child will feel a new affection for you and you will have built up a new relationship with him. It is never too late to re-establish such relationship, however hard it may seem to be to do so.

I shall be glad to answer, in these columns, questions addressed to me in care of this paper, provided these questions seem to be of general interest.

If you have a question you would like to have answered personally, write me, enclosing a self-addressed stamped envelope.

Dr. Mildred Rogers Speaks At Butler

Local Woman Is Guest Speaker At Banquet Of Business And Professional Women

Dr. Mildred Rogers, of this city, and state president of the Business and Professional Women's club was the guest speaker at the banquet opening Business Women's week in Butler, Monday evening.

The banquet was unique in that the women entertained their employers.

After an elaborate banquet had been served in the dining room of the Hotel Nixon, Dr. Rogers gave a splendid talk of "What the B. P. W. club means to the Business Woman". She also took up the unemployment situation and discussed that briefly.

Following the banquet the women of the Butler Club presented a pleasing minstrel show that was greatly enjoyed. They had been trained by William Heineman, son of Butler's mayor. Attorney Edith Galbreath, daughter of ex-judge Galbreath, acted in the capacity of toastmaster.

Helen Hinkson and Lucille Lutton of this city accompanied Dr. Rogers to Butler.

Expect To Complete Jury And Start Taking Of Testimony Today

When court adjourned in the trial of William Grimm for the murder of Clark Rex, at the county court room No. 2, Monday afternoon, eight jurors had been secured. In all 54 had been examined during the day. Judge Chambers directed that Tip-staves Hinkson and Mersheimer take charge of the jurors already chosen. They must be kept together and not allowed to speak to any outsiders until the completion of the trial.

Formed An Opinion
Mrs. Betty McKee, Hickory township, examined by defense. Mrs. McKee did not know any of the parties concerned in the murder. She said that she had formed an opinion from reading of the case. It would take evidence to remove her opinion, but she believed that she could lay it aside upon hearing the evidence. Challenged peremptorily by defense. Guy McCowan, engineer, Big Beaver township, examined by prosecution. "I am employed by the Wampum Portland Cement company," he said. "I do not know any of the people concerned in the case. Have read about it and discussed it at home. I have formed an opinion. I could lay it aside if the evidence were strong. Challenged for cause. Judge Chambers: "Do you mean to say that you would be influenced by what you have read?" "I believe I could lay it aside after I heard the evidence," Judge Chambers: "Challenge for cause refused. Commonwealth passed the juror. Examined by defense. "Would you hold your opinion when sworn as a juror?" "I think I could lay it aside," Challenged peremptorily by defense.

Challenged By Defense
James Peebles, farmer, Scott township, examined by defense. "Have you formed an opinion?" "I do not know any of the parties, but I believe that I could discard it and try the case on the evidence."

Challenged peremptorily by defense. Wesley Rice, insurance agent, 3rd ward, examined by prosecution. Rice said that he did not know any of the parties indicted, but he knew Mr. Llewellyn, Sr.

He had no conscientious scruples regarding capital punishment. Passed by commonwealth. Examined by defense. Rice said he had not discussed the case.

He was accepted as the fifth juror. Mrs. Margaret Dahl, Ellwood City, wife of Oscar Dahl, examined by defense. She had heard the case discussed but had not read about it. She had formed no opinion. Passed by defense.

Examined by Prosecution
"I have conscientious scruples against capital punishment, and could not bring in a verdict knowing the penalty was death. Challenged for cause by the prosecution."

Fixed Opinion
Daniel Kennedy, clerk, 2nd ward, examined by prosecution, said that he had formed an opinion, which would be hard to lay aside. Challenged for cause by prosecution.

Fred Emery, machinist, Taylor township, examined by defense. "I could try the case and render a verdict on the evidence. Passed by defense. Examined by prosecution. "I have no scruples regarding capital punishment."

"If the court instructed you that all persons concerned in a robbery are guilty of murder in the first degree, no matter who fired the fatal shot could you bring in a verdict of first degree murder against anyone?" "I could," Accepted as the sixth juror. Theodore Warnock, Scott township, examined by prosecution. "I live near McCaslin and am employed in a garage in East Brook."

Warnock, who is a single man, said that he had formed an opinion which he was afraid would influence him in arriving at a verdict. Challenged for cause by prosecution.

Robert E. Bowman, tinworker, 2nd ward, examined by defense. "I do not know defendant or his father. I have read about case and expressed an opinion. I do not know that I could entirely rid myself of the opinion I have formed. Challenged for cause by prosecution."

Judge Chambers: "Could you leave out of the picture what you have read about the case?" "It would be hard to say," Judge Chambers: "Challenge was sustained."

Conscientious Scruples
Mrs. Harriet Swiggers, North Beaver township, mother of four children. Had read of case but formed no definite opinion. Did not know any parties concerned in murder. Has conscientious scruples against capital punishment. Challenged for cause by prosecution.

Gertrude Kyle, North Beaver township, examined by defense. "Have read about case. Have formed opinion from newspapers. Could change my opinion on evidence. Challenged peremptorily."

Carrie E. Heitzman, 2nd ward, examined by prosecution. "I do not know any of the parties, and have formed no definite opinion. I could bring in a verdict knowing the penalty to be death."

Question: "If the court should instruct the jury that all persons are equally guilty, when a person is killed while a robbery is committed, could you bring in a verdict against anyone, even should it appear that the person on trial did not actually fire the shot?" "I am afraid I could not," Challenged for cause.

Had Scruples
S. B. McElwain, farmer, Slippery Rock, had conscientious scruples, partly due to his religious convictions. Challenge for cause was sustained.

Mrs. Ida McCreary, North Beaver township, examined by prosecution. Had formed no opinion. Hearing is not good. Would be a strain to listen to witnesses. Challenge for cause sustained.

"Could you bring in a verdict of guilty in the first degree, even though it should be shown that the person on trial did not actually fire a shot which caused death during a robbery?" "I think I could."

It developed that former Judge J. Norman Martin had been counsel for Rodgers and that on account a peremptory challenge was sustained.

Alfred March, Sixth ward, examined by prosecution, had formed no opinion. Examined by defense. "I do not know any of the parties, but I believe that I could discard it and try the case on the evidence."

opinion. Did not know any of the parties concerned. Passed by prosecution. Challenged peremptorily by the defense.

COULDN'T STAND THE JOB

Found He Was Licked When He Went to the Test

Old Story to the World's Tonic Representative Carries This Lesson for Sick People

"That man reminds me of Big Jim Hathaway, over in Indianapolis," said the World's Tonic representative, as a big stranger left McKee's drug store. "Big Jim was one of the luckiest fellows I ever saw, but he had to quit a job because a labor gang because he wasn't strong enough to hold up his end."

"Big Jim wouldn't believe anything could do him. He met his match by getting a hard cold, however. He let that cold hang on for months, until he looked like he had shrunk. But he was able to get around and he wouldn't give up. This labor gang was a tough crowd. The employer knew it, but he knew Jim's reputation, and he made him boss. Jim went at it, too, but the second day he just sat down and bawled like a baby because he had lost all his strength. The gang knew it, and he couldn't boss them any more."

"That was the day before he came for a bottle of World's Tonic and I met him. I never saw a worse case of catarrh for such a short time, and his stomach wouldn't give him any peace. He was as weak a big man as I ever saw."

"Well, he took the first bottle of World's Tonic and he felt a little better. The second put him on his feet. After the third he hunted up that gang of toughnecks, and they got a real surprise. Jim has bossed that gang for several months now, and nobody starts anything with him, either. That's the trouble with a lot of folks. When catarrh catches them they depend on their own strength, until it is gone, and then they are wrecks. A bottle of World's Tonic as soon as they have catarrh would save them a lot of trouble, but they wait until their cases are chronic. I suppose because of this I sell more World's Tonic, but I hate to see suffering, and if I could make one realize what a valuable treatment World's Tonic is for catarrh there would be many more happy people."

World's Tonic is for sale by Eckers, McKee's, Paisley's, Smith's and all other first class druggists. (A-53)

YOUR INCOME TAX

No. 25

Under the "information at source" provision of the revenue act, persons making payments to another of "fixed and determinable income" of $1,500 or more during any calendar year must make a return thereof, if the recipient of such payment is single.

If the recipient is married, report need not be made if the payments aggregate less than $3,500. If the marital status of the payee is unknown to the payer, the payee is considered a single person for the purpose of filing an information return.

Fixed and determinable income includes interest, rent, salaries, wages, premiums, annuities, compensations, remunerations, and emoluments. The requirements are not limited to periodical payments but a single payment must be reported. A separate return of information for each employee is required of employers.

Information returns are required on Form 1099 and must be accompanied by a letter of transmittal on Form 1066. The filing date is on or before February 15. The returns are filed with the collector of internal revenue for the payer's district.

Information returns are carefully checked with individual returns of taxpayers to whom the payments are made. Many delinquent returns and additional revenue amounting to hundreds of thousands of dollars have been recovered as the result of the examination of information returns.

You will like Kotex because of its rounded tapered corners

KOTEX is shaped to fit. That means you have inconspicuous protection. You can feel immaculate and dainty, for Kotex deodorizes most effectively.

Then, too, Kotex is hygienically safe. Over 85% of our leading hospitals have chosen the very same material of which Kotex is made, because of its remarkable efficiency and surgical purity.

Kotex, you know, is made of Cellucotton (not cotton) absorbent wadding... a cellulose substance which performs the same sanitary function as the finest cotton, but with five times the absorbency.

Kotex is disposable. Just think what that fact alone means.

Kotex Company, Chicago, Ill.

KOTEX IS SOFT...

- 1—Not a deceptive softness, that soon packs into chafing hardness. But a delicate, lasting softness.
- 2—Kotex filler is far lighter and cooler than cotton, yet absorbs 5 times as much.
- 3—Disposable, instantly, completely.

Legion Bureau Needs Many Jobs

Can Furnish All Kinds Of Work-ers For The People Of The City

The American Legion Employment Bureau, Room 203, Greer Building, North Mercer street, according to John H. Fullerton in charge of the office, has plenty of persons in need of employment but not enough of jobs to go around.

A few persons have been put to work in the past few days but the list of former service men in need of employment, who are presenting their discharges and asking for work, is growing and it is desired that all possible cooperation be given in getting these men and in some cases their dependents employment.

The bureau is especially well supplied with persons adept in the cleaning of wallpaper and as the house cleaning time is now at hand, it is asked that the people afford employment for these persons without delay. They can be supplied by the hour, by the room and for a part of a day or a whole day as desired.

Industrial conditions will be improved in from three to six weeks according to the statements made to Mr. Fullerton by local concerns. Just call 3216 if you have some work to be done.

Ornithologist To Seek Bird Specimens

(International News Service) BERLIN, March 12.—For the New York Museum of Natural History and the Berlin Museum of National Science, Gerd Heinrich, noted German ornithologist and his wife, Anneliese, departed for Malaysia and the Molucca Islands to catch some very rare specimens of birds which are not yet represented in any museum or private collection of birds in the world.

Heinrich and his young wife will live in the jungles of Celebes and in the entirely unexplored mountain region of Halmahera island for several months, only accompanied by native servants and carriers.

The New York Museum of Natural History is most anxious to get a perfect example of the rare jungle rail which reportedly lives in the interior of Celebes. Heinrich is quite familiar with the habits of these birds and considers it his most difficult task to catch one of them alive. With a powerful flashlight the explorer hopes to dazzle the bird so as to be able to get them before they can fly away.

Russia Orders German Ships

BERLIN, March 11.—Fifty-seven ships worth several million Marks have been ordered by Soviet Russia from several German shipyards. Besides, the Soviet Trade Delegation in Berlin has bought ship machinery in the amount of altogether one million Marks.

The purchases have come as a surprise, because the U. S. S. R. recently declared that it does not at all agree with Germany's present trade policy. It is believed that Soviet Russia wants to improve her sea traffic and probably also use some of the new ships as ice-breakers.

Lillian Gish Tries Hand At Invention

HOLLYWOOD, March 12.—Lillian Gish has turned out to be an inventor or rather, an improviser. She has solved a problem that worried sound engineers ever since talking pictures were born. It is the matter of heels clattering against the floor as the players walk about during the "shooting" of sound film. The sensitive microphones magnify the simple clicking of the heels into a torrent of sound.

It remained for Miss Gish to suggest the simple device of pasting strips of felt to the bottoms of the heels, and, scies, too, for that matter, this eliminating another annoying source of extraneous sounds in talkies.

Coolidge Escapes Grief

Stewart Leans To Belief That Former President Probably Is Happy He "Didn't Choose To Run" In 1928

By CHARLES P. STEWART

Central Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, March 11.—Is Calvin Coolidge probably happy he did not choose to seek a re-nomination in 1928?

Well, he certainly escaped considerable grief by choosing not to do so. Last winter's stock market slump inevitably would have worried him a great deal more if he had been in the White House than it is likely it did with Mr. Hoover as the executive mansion's tenant.

And the unemployment situation? It is all very well to refer to it as a communistic agitation, but the fact remains that there appears to be quite a bit of genuine unemployment mixed up in it. It would have been on Mr. Coolidge's hands instead of Mr. Hoover's, if Mr. Coolidge had been re-nominated at Kansas City—because there can be no doubt that he would have won at the polls, just as Mr. Hoover did.

The prohibition situation is another situation that is decidedly more acute just now than it was during Mr. Coolidge's presidential regime.

Then there is the agricultural situation. It may be said that Mr. Coolidge simply stalled this situation off, to "break" after he was out of office. Possibly; nevertheless, it was not until after he was out and Mr. Hoover was in that it did "break," so that there could be no more stalling.

Moreover, the tariff situation! By retiring just when he retired, Mr. Coolidge also left that to split the G. O. P. early in Mr. Hoover's administration.

There are two ways—as between Mr. Coolidge and Mr. Hoover—of looking at the "breaks" which have occurred since March 4, 1929.

One is that they would not have occurred if Mr. Coolidge had stayed in the White House. The other is that Mr. Coolidge could see that they were bound to occur pretty speedily, and that this prophetic vision of his tended to influence him to quit when the quitting was so favorably to him.

Either way, it is hard to imagine Mr. Coolidge, traveling around the country and enjoying himself, as feeling otherwise than that this is a mighty satisfactory time not to be still on the job as president.

After Mr. Coolidge, out in the Black Hills in the summer of 1927, had announced that he did not choose to run for president again, it will be recalled that there remained a lingering suspicion in most people's mind that maybe he would yield and run anyway, if the pressure proved strong enough—and that this suspicion continued up to the very last minute.

The fact finally developing that Mr. Coolidge really was determined not to run again (in 1928), or else that the pressure had not proved strong enough, the suspicion took this new form:

Had Mr. Coolidge, in the back of his head, some sort of thought contemplative of 1932?

One can understand how, assuming that Mr. Coolidge had his doubts of the 1929-33 period as a comfortable period for the White House, occupant, the Northamptonian might rather willingly have relinquished his chances for that interval.

Of course, in the present day and generation, a president who has had one term is about as sure as certainty can be of a re-nomination, if he insists on it.

However, there is the possibility that he will not insist on it.

True, it seems like an exceedingly remote possibility.

Yet perhaps it can be regarded as less remote in Mr. Hoover's case than it would be in the case of any other individual it is easy to imagine in his position—that is to say, at the end of four frightfully trying years as chief magistrate.

Mr. Hoover is impatient and sensitive and no politician.

It is not impossible to think of successful evangelistic meeting of two weeks in the Newport Methodist church. The meetings were conducted by the pastor and Ancel Leonard led the singing. After a fine sermon at 2:30 p. m. by Rev. C. T. Durbin of the Christian church in Chewton, the pastor administered the sacrament of baptism to several infants. In the evening the pastor preached and received a class of 21 new members into the church. Thursday evening a reception for the new members will be held in the church. Refreshments will be served and a program with a good speaker will be given. Rev. Will H. Fenton, pastor.

Women's Club Are Asking For Names For Old Sycamore Standing On Public Square

The Sycamore tree on the "Diamond" has seen a cow pasture turn into a busy city square, a bubbling stream give place to a steady stream of traffic, buildings arise story by story, block by block.

It has seen the passing of the oxen team and the horse and buggy. It has glimpsed the first lone street car and has watched the advent of the automobile.

It would almost seem as though this tree had seen it all—but it has yet an important experience to undergo. It is to receive a name.

To stimulate interest in this Sycamore tree in particular and in all trees in general, the Lawrence County Federation of Women's clubs has decided to conduct a contest. This contest is for the purpose of selecting an appropriate name for this tree and is open to all school children of New Castle.

When the name is selected, the Lawrence County Garden club will furnish a beautiful bronze tablet to be put on the tree, bearing its name. The club will also erect a guard rail around the base of the tree.

Five dollars will be awarded the student who presents the best name. Members of the Lawrence County Garden club will be judges of the contest, which will close May 1, 1930. Suggestions should be not longer than three words, as for example—"John Carlisle Stewart," or "William Penn." Suggestions should be mailed to Mrs. W. C. Eckenrood, 113 Fairfield avenue.

There is some question as to the age of this old Sycamore. A prominent local man says that he used to climb the tree 60 years ago and it was an old tree then. Another local man says it cannot possibly be a hundred years old, but still another man says that it is much older.

The ladies, of course, do not say. Sycamore trees usually grow along side streams of water and it is said that in time gone by this tree was on the bank of a small stream. The stream came from the Falls Spring, on the corner of Highland and Grant streets, and flowed down the main street, through the Diamond and into the Shenango river.

Of course, at that time it wasn't the main street, nor was it the Diamond, and New Castle was just a clump of two or three log cabins. The grandmother of one of our older citizens lived in a log cabin on the west side of the Shenango river, and her cattle grazed peacefully among the trees on what is now our Diamond.

Years have greatly changed the public square. There is no stream, no cows, and no log cabins. There is just one reminder of the past—the old Sycamore.

And this old landmark might have been decayed and gone if it hadn't been for the splendid work of a tree surgeon, 10 or 15 years ago. The tree was filled with cement on one side, from the ground up about four feet. The work of the tree surgeon resembles the work of a dentist. The decayed parts of the tree are removed before the filling is put in. The cement filling prevents further decay.

Those who have read The Bear Story, by James Whitcomb, remember the little boy climbed a sycamore tree and "et apples" all night. Of course, he did not get the apples from the tree, for sycamore fruits are quite different and not all good to eat. They are round balls about an inch in diameter, hanging on long stems. Each ball is made up of many small dry fruits which become separated from the cluster and are carried considerable distances by the wind.

In this season, the sycamore does not present the pretty picture it does in the summer months, but anyone who has ever seen the tree in the summer, will not forget the beautiful spread of its leafy limbs, its heavy trunks which subdivide and form a very deep, widespread rather open, and irregular crown, and rather stout, zigzag twigs.

It stands as high as the Soldier's monument on the public square. Most sycamores are broad and tall. The most massive tree in Pennsylvania is a sycamore about four miles south of Lancaster between the Lincoln Highway and Marietta turnpike. The diameter is 22 feet, height over 100 feet, and branch spread 140 feet. Its three main branches are 70, 72, and 84 feet long.

The dimensions of our sycamore do not compare with those, but it is a striking tree, nevertheless. A large limb of the tree was cut off, in recent years, by the city, fearing that it might fall.

A well known writer once said that trees have about them something beautiful and attractive even to the fancy, since they cannot change their places, are witnesses of all the change that take place around them; and some reach a great age, they become, as it were, historical monuments.

That is what the Lawrence County Garden club wants to make of the old sycamore—a monument.

Prayer In Congress

The house met at 12 o'clock noon. The chaplain, Rev. James Shera Montgomery, D. D., offered the following prayer:

As we are made in Thy image, Almighty God, O may we not look down, but up. In hope we live and by hope we are saved. The things that are seen are not enough for the soul touched with the divine nature. Do thou bring the presence of Thy Son, our Saviour, and His glorified cross to the spiritual apprehension of every member and officer of this congress. In Him may we realize that there is a place for every experience and a kingdom that flames beyond the bounds of sense. Be pleased to guide and bless our president and his hearthstone. Be with the entire body of our citizenship. Increase its faith in its chosen servants. Continue to inspire us with high aims and with the thought of a better and a purer manhood. Vouchsafe to sanctify all human affections by all the nobility of the immortal soul. Amen.

Achievements Of Business Women

(Contributed)
The spotlight of publicity will focus upon the achievements of business women in 1,100 communities during the week of March 10, 16, which is being observed throughout the country as National Business Women's Week.

The purpose of National Business Women's Week is to bring before the public the achievements of business and professional women, and to point out the increasingly important contribution which women are making to the commercial and professional life of the day.

The National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs fostered the first scientific, nationwide survey of business and professional women and brought to light many facts not hitherto recognized about business women's problems.

Chief of Police Fred Kirkpatrick and Coroner Harry C. McCarter, investigating the death, could discover no motive for the act. A certificate of death by suicide was issued by the coroner.

"Rump" Convention Of Miners Attack At Indianapolis

International Miners Convention
In Indianapolis Scorns Illinois Session

By EUGENE J. CADOU
International News Service Staff Correspondent

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., March 11.—Definite recommendations as to treatment of the Illinois revolt where to be incorporated in a report of the committee on officers' reports of the thirty-first constitutional convention of the United Mine Workers of America, which was to be delivered to the convention this afternoon.

The committee on officers' reports has been considering a lengthy joint report of President John L. Lewis, vice president Phillip Murray and secretary-treasurer Thomas Kennedy, in which union men now meeting in a "rump" convention at Springfield, Ill., were scored as traitors to the international union.

This committee also had before it a supplementary report of Secretary-treasurer Kennedy revealing that the international union has a cash balance of $973,000.

On the agenda of today were the reports of the committees on the constitution and resolutions, although there was some question whether the resolutions committee will have completed its recommendations.

The important wage scale committee began its deliberations, but it was believed it will require at least a week for a report to be formulated.

With officers reporting that 85 per cent of the Illinois local mine unions are represented here, the headquarters organization proclaimed a victory over the rebellion.

Rev. Rudolph E. Schulz, Of Warren, Ohio, Will Be Guest Speaker At Trinity

His very eloquent sermon last Lent on "The Three Crosses," has prompted the engagement of the Rev. Rudolph E. Schulz, of Warren, Ohio, as the special speaker, Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock in Trinity church. Those who were fortunate enough to hear Mr. Schulz at that time, anticipate with pleasure his visit this year, others who have not heard him, should make an effort to do so.

He is a native of Pittsburgh, and most of his work has been in Western Pennsylvania. He is a graduate of St. Stephen's College and the Episcopal Theological school at Cambridge, Mass., a member of the Social Service Commission and Chairman of the Diocese of Board of Religious Education.

He is one of Ohio's leading clergymen, at this time, being Rector of Christ Church, Warren, Ohio. As this is our first visiting preacher of his length year, let a large attendance accomplish a two-fold purpose: a grateful welcome to Mr. Schulz and a spiritual benefit gained for Trinity church.

Young Plan Given Second Approval

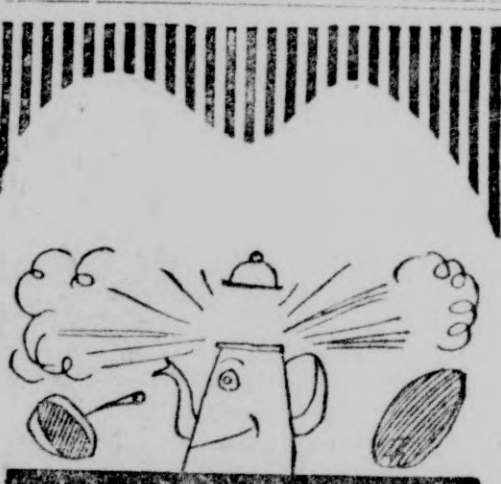

BERLIN, March 11.—The Young plan for reparations payments passed the second reading in the Reichstag today by a vote of 251 to 174. There were 26 abstentions.

The favorable vote on this reading had been anticipated. The final vote on the bill accepting the Young plan for Germany will take place tomorrow, after the third and final reading of the bill.

Sponsors of the bill believe that it will pass with a safe majority.

LARGE CONGREGATION HEARS MISSIONARY

Rev. W. L. Seymour, a missionary, was the preacher Sunday evening at the Emmanuel Baptist church. He gave a most interesting address on missionary work and his sermon had a powerful appeal that was well received.

EXPLOSION Insurance is a sort of "all-over" coverage for unexpected "blows". Gas leakage! Gasoline! Fuel oil! Even a cellar full of root beer has been known to burst its bounds! The cost of protection? Trivial!—as compared to the possible damage!

Let's cover you now! Yes, it's one of the "specials" issued by the ever dependable Automobile Insurance Company of Hartford, Conn.

Firemen were called out to combat three grass fires Monday, none of which were of any consequence.

Shortly after noon, they were called to West Clayton street by an alarm from Box 79, where grass was afire in a field. Mrs. Blaine Bumbaugh, a neighbor was watching the fire to see that no damage resulted, when some boys who had discovered the fire turned in an alarm.

At 2:40 in the afternoon, W. J. Quinn, notified Chief Lyons that there was a grass fire in a field just off Court street, owned by the Elder heirs. Firemen Dart was sent to the scene with the No. 4 apparatus, but found the fire had been extinguished.

Later in the afternoon, an alarm was sounded by some boys from Box 38, for a grass fire in the same district. They had notified Capt. Clark of No. 4, who communicated with the chief and was told to keep in touch with the situation. The boys in the meantime, turned in an alarm which was not necessary.

"Juryless Trial" System Aired By House Committee

Fate Of Wickersham's Enforcement System Of "Juryless Trials" Is Weighted

SCHEDULED FOR HEARING WEDNESDAY

Sub-Committee Meets Today To Consider Several Substitute Proposals

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, March 11.—The fate of the Wickersham law enforcement commission's so-called "juryless trial" system of tightening prohibition enforcement was weighed by the Christopherson house judiciary sub-committee today while both wets and dries were preparing for attacks on other sectors of the prohibition front. Unable thus far to reach an amendment on the commission's plan to revise federal court procedure by permitting U. S. commissioners to hear minor dry law cases, the sub-committee met to consider substitute proposals as well as the commission's bills.

Consider Substitutes.
The substitutes include expansion of the crime commission's system to include all minor federal law violations, including prohibition, as proposed by Rep. Christopherson (R) of South Dakota. Another alternative proposal is to limit federal enforcement to interstate prohibition crimes, while Rep. Stobbs (R) of Massachusetts urged amendment of the Jones law by specifically defining "petty violations."

The law enforcement commission is scheduled to meet again tomorrow to hear the plea of Rep. Dyer (R) of Missouri for 2.75 per cent beer. The action of Chairman George W. Wickersham in granting Dyer a hearing gave rise to reports among wets that the commission may make some definite recommendations on prohibition.

No Stand Taken.
Thus far the commission has refused to take a stand on the merits of the question, confining itself to methods of law enforcement.

The house judiciary committee is scheduled to open its "wet bill hearings" again tomorrow, with the dries presenting women witnesses from several cities.

A possible row between wet and dry members of the committee was in the making because of the demand of dries for the right of rebuttal. Although the committee planned to close its hearings by giving the wets one day to rebut dry testimony, the dries now demand the last word. Wets oppose the request.

Women summoned by the dries are expected to answer the women witnesses for the wets. Led by Mrs. Charles Sabin of New York "400," the latter demanded repeal of the 18th amendment, and declared the liquor laws are defied in "high" society.

Public Library Has Recently Purchased Review Of Testament

"Christ and Society," by Charles Gore, is the work of an expert whose flowing style and facility of expression makes the book easily and enjoyably read. It contains a review of New Testament teaching and in brief outline traces the course of events in the past, shows in a startling way how in some respects modern civilization has departed from Christ's plan and suggests remedies. Dean Gore calls Bishop Gore "the greatest living force in the Anglican communion," but the book is written for and applies to all Christians and will be of special interest to thoughtful laypeople.

The public library has recently purchased this book.

On an acre basis this would be an average yield of 7040 quarts and a profit of $889.20, he pointed out. One boy obtained 612 quarts and a profit of $90.56 on his one-twentieth acre plot.

Raspberry yields from 250 plants averaged 254 quarts of berries and $43.66 profit. The best yield was 600 quarts and the profit was $140.90.

New Medicine Quickly Banishes Ills For Man—Eagerly Praises Its Powers.

L. A. GUEMANN

"Konjola is the only medicine that did me any good," said Mr. L. A. Guemann, 209 West Norwegian street, Pottsville. "I suffered for years with indigestion and kidney troubles. I bloated so terribly after meals that my heart was affected and palpitated until I became weak. A dull sickening pain ran through my back almost constantly and frequent bladder actions so disturbed my sleep that I became nervous and rundown. 'My friends, after much urging, prevailed upon me to try Konjola. What a pleasant surprise awaited me! My bowels began to function and then my kidneys became normal. Today I suffer no back pains and bladder actions are natural and without discomfort. My stomach cleared up and now the heartiest foods are digested without difficulty. I no longer bloat and my heart is in excellent condition. I am in excellent health for the first time in years.'"

Konjola is sold by Love & McGovern, the druggists, 204 E. Washington St., this city.

"WHAT CHARM ALWAYS ALLURES?"

Movie Directors say: "Lovely Skin"

"The one thing which is universally alluring is smooth, velvety skin," say 45 of Hollywood's most famous directors. "To a screen star it is invaluable for the public takes to its heart only those whose skin shows flawlessly smooth in the close-up."

Hollywood has long been aware of the great appeal beautiful skin has to the emotions. For years 9 out of 10 screen stars have been relying on Lux Toilet Soap to give their skin the lovely smoothness the public demands.

Ruth Elder's beauty and daring have made her famous. She is now under contract to Hoot Gibson and her lovely skin passes the severe test of the close-up easily. "Lux Toilet Soap keeps my skin so wonderfully smooth," she explains.

Charming Betty Francisco also uses this delicately fragrant white soap. She says: "It leaves my skin like velvet." Delightful Kathryn Crawford states: "I always use Lux Toilet Soap." No wonder it is the official soap in all the great studio dressing rooms.

City To Continue Inspector's Office

Mayor Will Soon Recommend Municipal Inspector Of Plumbing

It may not be long until Mayor William Gillespie recommends to council that an inspector of plumbing be appointed for two years.

E. S. Stevenson whose term expired March 1 is continuing to perform the duties of the office. It is reported that the local union of journeymen plumbers presented three names of eligibles for the office to city officials. Today Mayor Gillespie said that the office would be filled but as yet he is not ready to announce whom he will recommend. Under the law the mayor makes the recommendation and council votes for or against the appointee.

Another twist in the situation is that while the mayor makes the recommendation the inspector is under the jurisdiction of the safety bureau head.

Councilman Reeves is superintendent of the bureau of safety.

Says Smoking Is Not Harmful

(International News Service)
BOSTON, March 11.—Moderation is the one and only "catch" in tobacco smoking, according to Dr. Walter L. Mendhall, of the Boston University School of Medicine, in a speech at Harvard Medical School's free public lecture. He added that there was no set limit to moderation, but that it varied and must be determined for each individual.

Smoking in itself, according to the physician, has no harmful effects, if confined within reasonable limits. In fact, it has a tendency to act much like a rest, in bringing a person back to normal from a state of high tension, or depression.

Experiments and surveys have shown, according to Dr. Mendhall, that smoking does not depreciate the intellectual capacity or stunt physical development. It has no effect on the gaining or losing of weight.

Begin Selection Of Last Six Jurors This Afternoon

Both sides are nearing the exhaustion of their peremptory challenges, the commonwealth having used 11 and the defense 14. Each side is entitled to 20 such challenges, after which they must accept a juror unless he can be excused for legitimate cause.

Following the example of Monday, the courtroom was kept less than full this morning. The confusion and bustle, which has marked sensational trials in bygone years is missing thus far, although it is expected that many more will endeavor to gain admission when the taking of testimony starts. The sheriff and his deputies have kept the attendance down to jurors, witnesses, newspaper representatives and court attaches, and as a result there is no commotion.

As yesterday, a crowd of people were on the courthouse porch this morning trying to gain admission, but without cards they had as much chance of getting in as they did into a presidential ball without an invitation.

A rumor persists that W. Glenn Dague may take the stand for the purpose of aiding his "gun girl" sweetheart. This appears rather doubtful when it is remembered that Dague will have to defend his own life against the murder charge.

By Wednesday at noon it is expected that the taking of testimony will start. The commonwealth is ready with its witnesses to start the chain of evidence that is expected to link Irene Schroeder to the electric chair.

The jurors examined this morning follow:

Morning Session Opens
Lavinia Weinschenk was the first juror of the day to be called. She resides in Shenango township. Examined by the court, Mrs. Weinschenk had read of the case and discussed it somewhat. Her son had served on the grand jury finding a true bill in the case but had not discussed the case with him since he served. She had an opinion which could be laid aside. Defense challenged peremptorily.

Alice Adams a housekeeper of Taylor township was called. She had formed an opinion in the case but felt that she could change. Had scruples against capital punishment. Challenged for cause and excused.

James S. Ball, a clerk residing in the Second ward was called. He did not know any of the members of the state police or patrol. Had read of the case and had discussed it, and had formed an opinion but could lay aside the opinion.

Earl Brown, a laborer of Volant, was called. He had formed an opinion, but felt it would not interfere with his verdict. No scruple against capital punishment. When an accomplice might have fired the shot he would follow the law. Never had any trouble with the police. Commonwealth challenged peremptorily.

Charles Moorehead, upholsterer of New Bedford was called. Married and has 3 children. Does not know any of police. He is a school director in New Bedford. Read everything he could find on case and had discussed it with acquaintances. Formed an opinion but could change it when evidence was presented. Challenged peremptorily.

Geneva Lytle a housekeeper of Shenango township was called. Had read of the case and discussed it. Had a slight opinion but could set it aside. No scruples against capital punishment. Commonwealth challenged peremptorily.

Woman Called
Angie Colnot, a clerk, of the 4th ward was called. She had read of and discussed the case, had formed an opinion and thought that the opinion would influence her verdict. Later she changed this and said she could hold this opinion in abeyance. The defense challenged peremptorily.

Had Fixed Opinion
P. A. Rodgers, a merchant of the 2nd ward was called. He does not know any of the motor patrol or state police. Had read of the case in a number of newspapers and had discussed it. Had an opinion and had expressed it. Could not change and was excused.

William Nesbit, a farmer of Little Beaver township was called. Had read of the case and had some opinion, but could change it. No scruples against capital punishment. Commonwealth passed the juror. Defense challenged peremptorily.

Pearl Fulkerson, a housekeeper of Union township. Had read of case and had discussed it. Had an opinion but could hold it in abeyance. The defense passed the juror, she being the first woman to be accepted by either side. However she had scruples against capital punishment and was excused.

Woman Accepted
Jennie Curtis, a housekeeper of Union township was next called. Examined by Powers she said that she had an opinion which could be held in abeyance and had no scruples against capital punishment, nor did it make any difference that the defendant is a woman. The commonwealth passed the juror. The defense accepted her as juror number five at 11:20 a. m.

Sara S. Wells, a housekeeper of the 2nd ward had formed an opinion which she felt would interfere with her verdict.

Frank F. Miller, city engineer of New Castle was challenged peremptorily by the defense.

J. C. Hoon, a salesman of Neshannock township. Knew none of boys; married, two children 38 and 42. Had formed an impression of case from reading. Could try case on merits. Passed by Commonwealth.

Visits at Taft Home

Photo shows Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, widow of the late President, arriving at the Taft home in Washington, D. C., to pay condolences to the family of the late Chief Justice and former President.

Shenango township was called. Had an opinion which would not interfere with his verdict. The defense passed the juror. Cross examined by Margiotti he seemed doubtful concerning capital punishment. Finally said he could render a death penalty if the evidence warranted it. Challenged peremptorily by commonwealth.

Legion Meets At Home Tonight

Will Consider New Problems That Are Confronting The Organization

Regular meeting of Perry S. Gaston post No. 343, American Legion, will be held this evening at 7:30 o'clock in the Legion home.

A number of important matters will be up for consideration, including the report of the various committees relative to the recent national command's banquet, which was a success. One of the matters to be considered this evening will be that of a charge to be made for initiation in the future and the status of eligibles for membership in the future. If the proposed changes are favorably considered, those not now members, coming in, will pay an initiation fee in addition to the dues and come in as new members only.

Denies Promise Of B. & O. Terminal

Daniel Willard, president of the B. & O. Railroad Co., today denied that any promise had ever been made that a $1,500,000 terminal was contemplated for Youngstown, O.

Mr. Willard, notified Mayor Joseph L. Heffernan of Youngstown, that no such promise had ever been made, and stated further that no one had ever been authorized to pledge the construction of such a terminal.

News Does Not Believe In Crime As Career

Some newspapers published outside the City of New Castle are printing what purports to be the "life story of Irene Schroeder," the blond trigger woman now on trial in the Lawrence County court house for the murder of Corporal Brady Paul.

This "life story" WILL NOT appear in the columns of the New Castle News, although this paper was given the opportunity of running it. The News is squarely against the stirring of public emotion by maudlin sentiment.

No writers have been allowed in the Lawrence County jail since Irene Schroeder was placed there after her return from Arizona. Neither has she sent out any mail containing any "life story." Hence it can be reasonably concluded that either this story was written by some writer who got the material second hand or it was secured from Irene by someone not a writer. One statement in the issue of the "life history" today has been controverted by the statements of four of the most reputable physicians in New Castle.

The New Castle News does not believe in crime as a career. Neither does it believe in presenting to its readers, an accurate, account of what happens, and in the trial of Irene Schroeder it will give the facts as they occur, publishing special editions when developments seem to warrant it.

If you want the story of the trial of Irene Schroeder, see to it that it is the New Castle News that you get.

ABOUT READY TO START REA CASE

Three obtained were from the panel originally in courtroom No. 1.

Every juror who was called had either read about the Rea murder or discussed it. Practically all of them had formed opinions. Some of these were fixed opinions. Others had formed opinions that could be changed by evidence. A few were opposed to capital punishment, while others either knew some of the boys concerned in the murder or their parents.

Were Relatives
Several were relatives of some of the boys, although the relationship was not close. Others were related to attorneys on one side or other of the case.

One of the questions that proved a stumbling block to many of the jurors related to the law in the case. Under the Pennsylvania statutes where a murder is committed in the commission of a robbery all persons who are concerned in the robbery are held to be equally guilty of the murder.

Some of the jurors were uncertain whether they could accept this law if it were shown that the fatal shot had been fired by someone other than the person on trial.

There were only a few spectators in courtroom No. 2 when the case was taken up by Judge J. A. Chambers this morning. Persons summoned as jurors and a few witnesses made up the audience.

Morning Session
Malvin Livingston, farmer, Scott township was the first juror called Tuesday morning. Examined by prosecution, single man, lives with parents. "I have read of case and formed an opinion which I am afraid I could not lay aside," he said.

Judge Chambers, "Do you think you could not try the case on the evidence, laying aside your opinion?" "I am afraid that I could not," he answered.

Challenged for cause, sustained. Charles Tanner, tinworker, Neshannock township. Married man with family of several children. Had formed an opinion which it would take evidence to change. Would hold opinion until evidence removed it. Challenged by defense for cause.

Judge Chambers, "Could you make up a verdict entirely from what you hear on the witness stand?" "I could," he answered.

Challenged for cause overruled. By defense, "You say you have a fixed opinion that it would require evidence to remove."

"I have," he answered.

Challenged for cause renewed. Sustained.

Panel Exhausted
This exhausted the panel of 56 jurors, out of which eight jurors had been accepted and eight. Judge Chambers then announced that all jurors who had been examined should go to courtroom number 1, where the Schroeder case is being tried. Jurors in courtroom No. 1, who had already been examined and refused in the Schroeder case were then called into courtroom No. 2, and the selection of jurors for the Rea case was again taken up.

Mrs. Daisy Bright, North Beaver township, examined by prosecution. Had read about case but had formed no opinion. Had no scruples against capital punishment. Could bring in verdict with death penalty. Would take instruction of law from court. "If the court instructed you that all killings in a robbery case constitute murder in the first degree and if it should appear that the person on trial did not actually fire the fatal shot, could you bring in a verdict against him of murder in the first degree?" "I do not believe I could," she answered.

Judge Chambers, "Mrs. Bright, you have said that you would take the instruction of the court to be the law." "Yes, I have," she answered.

"Could you bring in a verdict against one implicated in a robbery although the did not actually fire the shot that killed the person being robbed?"

"Well, I might, but I would hesitate to do so," she answered.

Could Change Opinion
I. E. George, gardener, Shenango township. Married, seven children. Had formed an opinion from what he had read. Had also discussed case. Opinion could be changed by evidence, but he would have it until there was conclusive evidence to remove it.

Challenged for cause by defense. Judge Chambers, "Would you be able to hold that opinion in abeyance, and try the case on the evidence you would hear from the witness stand?" "I could not," he answered.

Challenged for cause overruled. By defense, "Could you take your place on the jury and presume that the defendant was innocent?"

Objection raised to form of question. Sustained. "If sworn as a juror and you heard all the testimony, would your opinion stay with you until there had been testimony to change it?"

"I think it would," he answered.

Defense, "challenge for cause renewed." Judge Chambers, "Could you lay aside your opinion after hearing evidence?"

"I think I could," he answered.

Challenge for cause refused. Peremptory challenge granted.

C. Roy Allen, carpenter, Union township, examined by prosecution. Lives seven or eight blocks from Grimm home but does not know Grimm. Knew Martin by sight. Had formed an opinion. Would find it hard to lay it aside. Felt it might influence him. Challenged for cause sustained.

Could Reject Opinion

John McConahy, merchant, Wampum, examined by defense. Have read about case and discussed it. Had heard opinions expressed and had expressed them himself. Would require evidence to remove opinion. Believed he could try case on merits. Did not know any of the parties connected with case, but believed that he had seen Grimm somewhere. Passed by defense.

Questioned by prosecution. "Could you bring in a verdict of murder in the first degree, knowing the penalty was death?"

"I could," he answered.

Could you find this defendant guilty of murder in the first degree, even should it appear that he did not actually fire the shot?

"I could," he answered.

Challenged peremptorily by prosecution.

Ninth Juror Chosen
Howard Forbes, farmer, Slippery Rock township. Married. One child. Did not know any of parties. Had read of case. Formed no opinion. No scruples against capital punishment. Could bring in first degree verdict. Had some prejudice against law making all equally guilty of a murder during a robbery, but said he would try to overcome his prejudice. Passed by prosecution, also by defense and sworn as ninth juror.

John Robinson, clerk, Hickory. Married. Seven children. Oldest 13. Works New Castle postoffice. Had read of case in New Castle News. Discussed case. Had expressed an opinion. Could try case on evidence. Did not know defendant, or any of his family. Never had any business with any of attorneys at counsel table. Challenged peremptorily by defense.

Knew McDevitt's Sister
Miss Leah Parker, clerk, 8th ward, bookkeeper, W. J. Offutt Co. Not acquainted with any of persons concerned in crime, but knew Jack McDevitt's sister. Was afraid this might influence her.

Challenge for cause by prosecution sustained. Clark Gleason, salesman, 2nd ward. Examined by defense. Lived here 30 years. Married. Grimm's sister is his cousin by marriage. Said it would not influence him in case. Read about case. Formed no opinion but had an impression. Could try case on evidence. Passed by defense.

Prosecution, "Have you any scruples against capital punishment?" "I have not," he answered.

"If court instructed you that all in party are equally guilty when a person is killed during a robbery, could you bring in a verdict against any one?"

"I could," he answered.

"You say that this boy's sister is married to your wife's cousin?" "Might this embarrass you in the future?"

"It might," he answered.

Challenged peremptorily by prosecution.

Held Fixed Opinion
Lewis R. Nickum, Ellwood City, sign painter.

Did not know any connected with murder. Had formed opinion from what he had read. Afraid he could not set it aside.

Challenged for cause by prosecution.

Newton Young, farmer, Slippery Rock. Examined by prosecution. Married. Two children. Read of case. Discussed it.

Opinion formed. Couldn't lay it aside. Challenged for cause by prosecution.

W. J. Houston, steelworker, 3rd ward. Lived here 21 years. Married. Two children. Knew none of parties. Read about and discussed case. No fixed opinion. No scruples. Could bring in first degree murder verdict. Could accept court's instruction on murder when more than one is concerned in robbery. Born in Ireland. Passed by prosecution.

By defense, "How old are you?" "39 years," he answered.

"How long have you worked at steel mill?" "21 years," he answered.

Challenged peremptorily by defense.

Defense Challenges
Mrs. Lavinia Weinschenk, Shenango township. Wife of W. H. Weinschenk. Has five children.

"You have a daughter married to Attorney Cobau?"

"Yes sir," she answered.

And Mr. Cobau is a partner of Attorney Braham?

"Yes sir," she answered.

Have you formed an opinion? Yes, from what I have read. Could you find a verdict on the evidence?

Yes, I could.

Would the fact that Mr. Cobau is a partner of Mr. Braham, an attorney in this case, influence you in any way?

No, it would not.

Challenged peremptorily by defense.

Josephine Wright, Slippery Rock township, married; husband's name William Wright, maiden name White. Had no scruples against capital punishment. Would take law from court regarding more than one concerned in a murder during robbery. Has son and three daughters. Son 15.

"I could," she answered.

Commonwealth passed juror. Defense, "Do you say that you have formed no opinion?"

No definite opinion.

Accepted by defense and sworn as tenth juror.

William Reesman, foreman, Slippery Rock township, railroad worker, married; no children; knew none of police. Read of case. Talked about it. Had opinion, partly fixed, not influenced by other's opinion. Might take some evidence to remove his opinion.

Challenged for cause by defense.

Knew Llewellyn's Cousin
J. Fred Sheppard, clerk, first ward, married; no family, knew a first cousin of Llewellyn, who works in office where he is employed at tin mill. Would embarrass him in trial of case.

Challenged for cause by prosecution.

James S. Ball, clerk, Shenango pottery, lives 2nd ward; single, formed opinion from reading. Feared it might influence him in trial of case. Knew defendant and his brother-in-law; also knew one of other boys.

Challenged for cause by defense.

Bernard Kilne, merchant, 2nd ward, knew Jack McDevitt and some of the members of his family. Jack had been a customer at his shoe store. Had formed no opinion of the case. Had no scruples, passed by Commonwealth. By defense, How large a family have you?

Three children.

Accepted by defense and sworn as eleventh juror.

Wm. Hopper, laborer, North Beaver township, single, read of case and formed an opinion. Could set it aside. Would be difficult to arrive at a verdict because he knew Llewellyn.

Challenged for cause by defense.

Opposed Death Penalty
C. S. Hart, 2nd ward, employed by Pennsylvania railroad; knew Llewellyn's father. Didn't believe in capital punishment. Challenged for cause by prosecution.

Russell Holmeister, Mahoning township, employed as operator by Pittsburgh & Lake Erie railroad at Edinburg; had formed an opinion but could try case on evidence. Knew none of parties; relative of Attorney Wallace, employed by defense. His mother and Wallace, first cousins. Passed by defense. Would this relationship effect you in the trial of the case?

It would not.

Challenged peremptorily by prosecution.

A. D. Swick, farmer, Neshannock township. Knew none of boys; married, two children 38 and 42. Had formed an impression of case from reading. Could try case on merits. Passed by Commonwealth.

No, sir, I lived several miles away.

Challenged peremptorily by defense.

Irene Will Testify In Her Own Defense It Is Now Indicated

Alienists Here To Testify In Case Of Any Need For Services

FOUR JURORS ARE SELECTED MONDAY

Twenty Nine Examined To Secure First Four To Serve On Jury

What the line of defense will be for Irene Schroeder, blond trigger woman now on trial in the Lawrence County Court room, number one is not yet public property, but it is to be emotional insanity, the commonwealth is prepared to combat it with the testimony of two well known alienists, Dr. H. W. Mitchell, superintendent of the Warren State hospital and Dr. C. C. Wholley, of St. Francis hospital, Pittsburgh.

The two alienists were in court Monday afternoon, ostensibly for the purpose of observing the actions of the defendant. It became known that they had examined Irene in the jail some four weeks ago, and in their opinion, she is sane, and able to distinguish between right and wrong.

"Everything Went Dark"

The indication to the commonwealth that some attempt may be made to plead emotional insanity is said to be contained in some alleged life history of her which is being run today in part, in papers other than this one. In it, it is reported that Irene tells of being in Butler, of robbing a store there, of coming towards New Castle, of getting out of the automobile when the officers stopped them, and then "everything went dark."

The commonwealth counsel intends to combat vigorously the theory that Irene Schroeder is or was on December 27th, anything but a sane, normal woman, who shot down in cold blood, a State Highway Patrol corporal in the performance of his duty.

The two alienists who are here for the commonwealth are men of broad experience, specialists in their line and have done a lot of work for the State of Pennsylvania. The other alienists are said to have been here for the defense and examined Irene in her cell.

Irene Will Testify

"Irene Schroeder will testify on her own behalf" was the statement of Attorney Kodgwin Powell late Monday evening. It has been a question for some time whether or not the blond would take the stand and attempt to convince the jury that she was not guilty of murder. The statement of Attorney Powell sets at rest any doubt in the matter and early in the defense it is expected that this 21 year old gun girl will tell her story.

Three Jurors Added

Three jurors were added to the roster of selected jurors on Monday afternoon, C. Leroy Shira, a civil engineer residing in the first ward followed Joseph D. Kelley into the jury box. Shortly after, J. E. McDonald, a repairman of Ellwood City was selected as number three and E. C. Porter, a contractor of Wayne township was number four. At the adjournment of court Monday afternoon, 29 jurors had been examined, four had been excused before the examinations opened, four had been accepted and 27 remained of the panel.

No Spectators Admitted.

No spectators were admitted to the court room on Monday afternoon. It has been found that the jurors and witnesses fill comfortably the court room and Judge Hildebrand will not allow standees. The special deputy sheriffs have been functioning efficiently, and the trial is going on quietly and orderly.

No cameras are to be allowed in the court room. Monday afternoon Judge Hildebrand announced that any photographer attempting to shoot a picture would have his pass revoked, and would be taken into custody by the sheriff or his assistants. It is understood that any one violating the order will also draw thirty days in the county jail to ruminate upon the error of his ways.

No night court was held Monday evening. This appeared possible early in the afternoon, but at adjournment the court announced a recess until Tuesday morning. The jurors called Monday afternoon follow:

Monday Afternoon

C. S. Hart was the first juror to be called at the opening of the afternoon session. He is a train dispatcher for the Pennsylvania railroad and resides in the 2nd ward. He had read of and had discussed the case and had formed an opinion, which he felt might interfere with his verdict. Challenged for cause.

A. D. Swick, a farmer of Neshannock township was called. He had no scruples against capital punishment and had formed no opinion. Challenged peremptorily.

W. J. Houston was challenged peremptorily by the defense.

Woman Challenged

Josephine Wright, a housekeeper of Slippery Rock township was called. She had read of the case. She qualified but was challenged peremptorily by the commonwealth.

F. B. Chapin a farmer of Neshannock township was called and qualified, but was challenged peremptorily by the defense.

John Robinson, a clerk of Hickory township was called. He had read of and discussed the case and had formed an opinion. This he said was merely a casual opinion. He said he could not render a death penalty and was excused.

New Wilmington Man

William Anderson a laborer of New Wilmington was next called. He had read the case somewhat and had heard some discussion of it. A conference was held by the court and counsel and Mr. Anderson was excused as though not called.

Newton Young, a farmer of Slippery Rock township was called and said he had discussed the case somewhat. He had formed an opinion but felt that he could lay aside the opinion if proper evidence was produced. The defense passed the juror. Cross examined by the commonwealth he said that he did not think he was opposed to the death penalty. He finally said he could not fix the death penalty in this case. Later he said he could. He was challenged for cause.

Bernard Kline, a merchant, was excused after a conference of court and counsel.

Woman Challenged

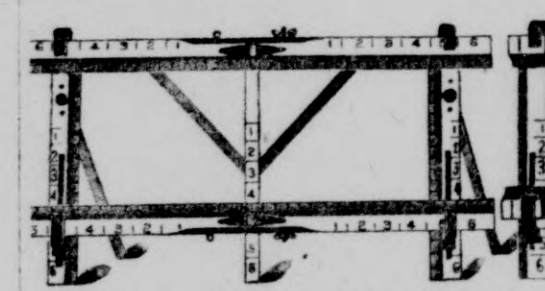

Leah Parker, a bookkeeper, residing in the 8th ward was called. She had read of the case and had discussed it, and had formed an opinion, which she said she could lay aside although it would take a lot of evidence. Challenged for cause.

Russell Hofmeister, a laborer of Mahoning Township was called. He had read of the case, had discussed it and had formed an opinion, but could lay it aside. He believed the death penalty proper when the testimony warranted it. He qualified for the commonwealth and was passed. Cross examination failed to disturb his qualification and the defense challenged peremptorily.

Had Formed Opinion

Elizabeth Wilkin, a housekeeper of Volant was called. She had read of the case and had discussed it somewhat and had formed an opinion. She felt it would be difficult to lay aside this opinion. She was challenged for cause by Dickey. Objected to by Margiotti. The court examined her and she said she could lay the opinion aside. She was further examined by Dickey. The defense passed the juror. Cross examined by Margiotti she said she was not opposed to the death penalty, but upon being pressed said she didn't know whether she could inflict the death penalty, fearing that her conscience might bother her. Challenged for cause and objected to by Dickey. The court then examined her at some length and excused her.

Second Juror Named

C. LeRoy Shira, an engineer residing in the first ward was called. He had read of the case, had discussed it and had formed an opinion, but could lay it aside if he was selected as a juror.

He had no scruples against capital punishment and could render a death penalty regardless of sex. He had no prejudice against the state highway patrol or the state police. The commonwealth passed him. Cross examined by the defense he said he had no connection with the state police or patrol. The defense accepted him as juror number two.

Hugh McDonald was called and excused.

J. Fred Shepperd, a clerk residing in the 1st ward was called and testified and said he had read and discussed the case. He was passed by the commonwealth and challenged peremptorily by the defense.

Juror No. 3

J. E. McDonald, a repairman of Ellwood City was called and said he knew of the case by reading the papers and discussing it. He said he was acquainted with Peck Lee, the county detective. He had formed an opinion but could render a verdict solely upon the evidence and law.

The defense passed the juror. Cross examined by Margiotti he said he had no conscientious scruples against capital punishment. He said he did not think he could render a death verdict for a defendant if an accomplice fired the shot. He changed this later and said he would follow the law. He was accepted 4:15 as juror No. 3.

William Reesman, a farmer of Slippery Rock township, was called. He said he had discussed the case quite a lot. He had formed an opinion which would need something to change it and finally said he could not change it. Challenged for cause and excused.

W. G. Marousis, a merchant residing in the second ward was called. He read of the case in various papers and had formed an opinion, and felt that he could not lay aside the opinion. Challenged for cause and excused.

Juror No. 4

E. C. Porter, a contractor of Wayne township was called. He had read of the case and had discussed the case but little. He had a casual opinion but this he said could be laid aside in favor of the evidence. He said he would have to hear much evidence to prove a death penalty case, but if the evidence was strong enough he would render such a verdict. Commonwealth passed the juror. The defense accepted him at 4:30 as juror No. 4.

Whan Hopper a laborer of North Beaver township was called. He had read of the case and discussed it somewhat. He said he could render a verdict upon the law and evidence. Defense passed him. Cross examined by Powell he said he had no scruples against capital punishment nor would the fact that the defendant was a woman have any bearing upon his verdict. The commonwealth challenged peremptorily.

C. Roy Allen a carpenter of Union township was called. He had talked to some of the witnesses on the case and had discussed it with them. He had found an opinion in the case which he felt could not be changed. Challenged for cause and excused.

Perry Book, a farmer of Washington township was called. He had read and discussed the case somewhat and had formed an opinion but could lay the opinion aside if called as a juror. His farm needs his attention and he was excused.

Mary Bentrim, a housekeeper of Ellwood City was called. She had read and discussed the case, had no scruples against capital punishment and could render a death verdict if the evidence warranted it. She had no prejudice against the state police or patrol. Commonwealth challenged peremptorily.

Recall Olden Days When Billy Bown Ran Store

There are not a great many of the boys of 1860-1877 round these parts now, but what few there are can still remember old Billy Bown, some say it's Bown, the taffy, gingerbread and candy man of their day.

One of these boys of olden days, the other day in reminiscing recalled the fact that Billy Bown had his bakery in a frame building at Neshannock avenue and Washington street.

It stood just on the corner. In later years, he moved into the middle one of three small frame buildings on the present site of the Johnson building, which he owned. Here he sold candy, taffy, gingerbread, cider and oranges.

A penny was a lot of money in those days and a generous piece of taffy or a nice big piece of gingerbread could be bought for that amount and it is recorded in the memory of this old time boy that Billy Bown got most of the pennies extant in that day.

A nickel was almost a fortune and was the price of an orange.

Just how this genius of those days managed to make much money is a question because the boys beside spending all their pennies, also managed to help themselves at times to some of his delicacies. Of those days was for the gang, one at a time to enter the store, bid Mr. Bown the time of day, then go and seat themselves on the long bench in the place and sit their in silence. When they had all come and continued at their game of Mum for a time, all of a sudden Mr. Bown would get terribly angry and drive them all out.

Then they would come back one by one, each with a penny and would select the jar on the highest shelf and while he was busy getting it down, might accidentally help themselves to some delicacy near at hand.

He would hardly make one sale and put back the jar until another would come in and go through the same performance.

It was also the congregating place for the farmers who liked Billy's gingerbread and cider served in season. One of the memories of Billy Bown was also his pigs, which he kept in a pen at the rear of his store.

your home always will be at an even temperature

With the old-style furnace burning old-style fuels it is almost impossible to be away from home for any length of time during this weather without having someone tend the fire in your absence.

Severe cold spells, a sudden change in temperature and water pipes are frozen---if they burst there is no telling the amount of damage that may be done.

But with Gas---the Automatic Fuel---you do not have to worry. Your home always will be warm and cozy and you do not have to be there to tend the furnace. Make your present heating plant completely Automatic by installing a Gas Home Heating Unit NOW---then enjoy it for the balance of the present cold season.

Phone the Gas Company and one of our representatives will call and explain the many advantages of Gas---The Automatic Fuel.

Will Not Continue King Murder Case

Petition To Lay Over Until June
Term Of Court Refused
By Judge Chambers

Application for a continuance until June term of court was made by attorneys for Bertha Blunt, charged with the murder of John Henry King, before Judge Chambers today. This is a case in which Bertha Blunt is charged with having shot King at a house on Home street. The shooting occurred last week and the case was returned to the March term of court by Alderman O. H. P. Green. Bertha was indicted by the grand jury last week.

In the application for a continuance attorneys stated that they did not have time to prepare the case and further that Bertha was without funds and needed time to raise money for her defense. Judge Chambers refused the motion, and the case will come up at the present term of court.

After listening to some radio broadcasts one discovers what becomes of all the old and cracked and scratched phonograph records.

NINETY PERFORMERS TO SHARE IN HOSPITAL BENEFIT SHOW

Jameson Memorial Benefit Minstrels, Thursday and Friday evenings of this week, in the Cathedral, will bring together a group of ninety of the district's best singers, minstrel dialogue experts and pretty girls.

This group has been working untiringly and for the good of the hospital and community for the past six weeks, and it is said that when New Castle's public spirited people who will be present to witness the performances, see the result of these efforts, that they will be convinced that it is a metropolitan production from New York, Chicago and other points, instead of New Castle's own talent.

The big benefit is divided into two sections, the first part or minstrel with its sweet singers and expert jokers and the second part of revue, which will assume the distinction of being the classiest affair of the kind ever held. Di Jones is directing the first part and Pete Iodice, the second.

For soloists there are nine of the city and district's best known minstrellets, including Tommy Blake, Paul Donley, Arch Cribbison and Haydon Jones, all four being endmen. Harry Masters, bass, Chester Biddle, baritone, Roger Francis, Bert Sanford and Bill McCombs, tenors.

This city has long contended that its girls are the prettiest and most charming in the country and this show will be the proof of the pudding, for there are three groups of the community's girls appearing on the program, first a group of high school girls, second a mixed group directed by Cecelia McCoy and third a group of tap dancers directed by Mary Louise Galvin.

Music is the mainstay of a performance such as this and the best of this line is assured by a special orchestra of thirteen pieces directed by Abe Levine, one of the city's master violinists. The numbers include several rearranged scores, designed to produce special and unexpected harmonious effects never heard here before.

The advance ticket sale indicates the complete financial success of the proposition. Practically the entire downstairs has been sold out on both nights, while the balconies are also going fine. The demand is about equal for both nights.

There are a number of local people who are assisting the cause and also affording less fortunate people with the pleasure that will be afforded them in witnessing this big performance.

Among these are the Castle Bowling Alleys, entertaining the carrier newsboys of the city; Jack Gerson, who is entertaining the children of the Margaret Henry Home and Ed Chapman, who will have the ladies of the Almira Home as his guests. The P. & O. Electric company is transporting the Henry Home children to the show while the New Castle Taxi Company will take the ladies of the Almira Home.

MERCER, Pa., March 11.—Although there was much talk and apparent interest in the sale of the Mercer Milling Company held last Friday the bidding was very low and unspirited and the company and building was sold for $2500 to Ivor C. Davis, Emory Davis and James Meehan of New Castle.

The property consists of a three story frame grist mill, fully equipped with all modern machinery. The building was constructed just a few years ago by the company.

No statement has been made by the buyers as to their future plans for the grist mill.

Feed Home Gardens To Meet Soil Needs

Lawrence County Farm Agent McCulloch Tells Of Fertilizer Needs Of Garden

Kind of soil, amount of manure applied and closeness of planting determine the fertilizer needs of the home garden.

Organic matter needed in the garden can be supplied by the application of stable manure or by turning down a green manuring crop, says County Agent H. E. McCulloch. Weeds and crop residue may be turned under. Fresh strawy manure and heavy green manuring crops should be turned under some time before planting.

Stable manure supplemented with 50 to 100 pounds of 16 per cent superphosphate per ton makes a well balanced fertilizer for the home garden. One pound of superphosphate to 10 pounds of hen manure makes a fairly complete fertilizer.

On medium to heavy soils, particularly where manure has been applied, a fertilizer containing about four per cent ammonia, 12 per cent phosphoric acid and four per cent potash will be profitable. Mr. McCulloch says. Where the rows are close together for hand cultivation, 1500 to 2000 pounds of fertilizer can be broadcast after plowing or digging the garden. In a large plot with the rows farther apart for horse cultivation, an application of 1000 to 1500 pounds per acre broadcast is sufficient.

On light to medium soils, especially where only a light application of manure has been made, a commercial fertilizer containing four to five per cent ammonia, eight to 10 per cent phosphoric acid and four to five per cent potash will supply plant food in a well balanced ratio.

Concentrated fertilizers, such as a 3-27-9 or a 15-30-15, may be used for the home garden, but the amount applied should be less than for the ordinary mixtures, in proportion to the total units of plant food contained. Such fertilizers must be mixed carefully into the soil, the county agent points out.

Doctor Tells How Flaxolyn Speeds New Energy to Run-down, Worn-out People

Health Seekers Here Acclaim Vitaminized Herbal Flaxolyn! Report That Flaxolyn Brings Sound Restful Sleep, Keen Appetite and Normal Bowel Functioning.

Another physician has added his name to the long list of American and European doctors who have publicly endorsed Dr. Luntz's Herbal Flaxolyn.

Dr. William W. Kern, (M. D., University of Pennsylvania), says: "Dr. Luntz's new vitaminized Herbal Flaxolyn tones the stomach, drives out the poison toxins which form in the constipated intestines. It acts as a remarkable diuretic to the kidneys, and gives gentle stimulation to the liver."

"To those in fagged-out, run-down condition, I earnestly and enthusiastically prescribe Herbal Flaxolyn."

Mother Nature Herself Endows Flaxolyn With Its Health Powers," Says Dr. James Forquer

Dr. James Forquer of Cleveland, states: "Flaxolyn is a NATURAL product. It derives its great benefits from Nature—the same source from which we get our food. Flaxolyn tones the internal organs, rids the body of toxic impurities, and restores normal action."

Every pleasant spoonful of Flaxolyn contains:

1. Vitamins equal to those found in a whole yeast tablet.
2. Extracts of sun-dried herbs.
3. Bile salts, which activate the sluggish, torpid liver and promote the flow of precious bile.
4. Valuable therapeutic ingredients with tonic, laxative and diuretic properties, approved by the highest medical authorities.

WM. W. KERN (M. D.)

America In The 20th Century
Events Of Taft's Administration

IN 1911 PRESIDENT TAFT SOUGHT TO NEGOTIATE A RECIPROCITY TREATY WITH CANADA. HE PROPOSED THAT DUTIES ON CANADIAN PRODUCTS BE LOWERED OR REMOVED, WITH THE EXPECTATION THAT CANADA WOULD MAKE SIMILAR CONCESSIONS ON AMERICAN GOODS. AFTER MUCH OPPOSITION THE RECIPROCITY TREATY WAS APPROVED BY CONGRESS, ONLY TO BE REJECTED BY CANADA.

DURING HIS ADMINISTRATION PRESIDENT TAFT, WITH ATTORNEY-GENERAL WICKERHAM, CARRIED ON A VIGOROUS CAMPAIGN AGAINST BIG BUSINESS COMBINATIONS THAT WERE VIOLATING THE SHERMAN ANTI-TRUST LAW OF 1890. SUITS WERE BEGUN AGAINST MANY LARGE COMPANIES CHARGED WITH ACTS IN RESTRAINT OF TRADE.

IN 1910 THE THIRTEENTH CENSUS SHOWED THAT THE POPULATION OF THE UNITED STATES ON THE CONTINENT HAD GROWN TO NEARLY 92 MILLIONS, INCLUDING THE POPULATION OF OUR ISLAND POSSESSIONS, 103,992,757 PEOPLE WERE LIVING UNDER THE AMERICAN FLAG.

SINCE 1900, ALMOST NINE MILLION IMMIGRANTS HAD COME TO AMERICA FROM FOREIGN LANDS. MOST OF THE NEWCOMERS CAME FROM ITALY, RUSSIA, BOHEMIA, HUNGARY AND GREECE. IN THE YEAR 1903, 1,250,000 IMMIGRANTS LANDED ON OUR SHORES. STEADILY, NEW ELEMENTS WERE BEING INTRODUCED INTO OUR POPULATION.

Westminster Titans End Great Floor Season

BY RUBE GOLDBERG

Tri-State Champs Rank Above Pitt In District Play

Westminster Basketball Team Wins 14 Out Of 16 Games Played This Year

Coach John Lawther Deserving Of Praise For Untiring Effort With Floormen

(Special To The News) NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., March 11.—Basketball is over at Westminster for the year, but the students and the players themselves have been reliving the hectic, nerve-racking season since the court uniforms were put away in mothballs last week.

Climaxing the most strenuous season in the history of basketball in the district by winning the Tri-State conference and class B college championships, Lawther's 1930 team deserves to be ranked among the greatest ever to represent Westminster.

Real Ability. Every victory of the 14 out of 16 which the Titans have on the record books was over a rival team of ability. There were no set-ups either in the conference race or in the district ranks. Every team was capable of championship brand of ball. As a result, going through the season with but two defeats is something about which one may write home.

The Titans started late in December on a schedule of seven pre-season games, all of which were won. Slippery Rock was defeated in the first of these contests by a 39-18 score. Kent State college was the next victim, losing by a 42-19 score. The strong Mercer Whipples team was defeated next at Mercer by a 40-21 score. Sharon Buhl club, with Tudor Lewis as coach and captain, held the Titans to a 22-17 win in the next game.

Youngstown Y. M. C. A. college proved no match for the Titans at Youngstown in the last day before the Christmas recess. The Lawthermen winning 36-16 with subs holding forth in the last half. Following the Christmas recess, Adrian college of Michigan was defeated 33-18 on the home floor. The last of the pre-season games was with Youngstown Y. M. C. A. college at New Wilmington. The Titans won handily by a 48-11 score.

Regular Season. Grove City was met in the first game on the regular schedule. People will talk about this meeting for years to come, for it was a thriller from start to finish. Two extra five-minute periods were needed to settle the score, but the Titans emerged a 30-25 victor. Thiel and Geneva were met and defeated in turn at New Wilmington by 34-8 and 22-20 scores.

The first defeat of the season, and the last one until the very last game of the schedule, was handed out to the Titans by Bethany at Bethany, W. Va., when, after the blue and white outfit was lost in a snowdrift for two hours, the Titans romped away from the frozen Titans to win 31-21. Eleven games were won in a row following this setback, with Carnegie Tech, Thiel, Geneva, Allegheny, Waynesburg, Washington and Jefferson, Duquesne and Grove City all falling before the Lawthermen.

The season ended for the Titans when Duquesne played superhuman ball to down the fighting Lawthermen at Pittsburgh by a score of 31-27 in the greatest game of the season. Two nights later, Len Friedman and his mates from Geneva obligingly upped the Dukes at Pittsburgh by a 27-24 score.

Art Shires, the pugilistic baseball player, is enroute to the White Sox training camp at San Antonio. The Great Arthur did not name the sum he is to receive this season. Asked about the suspension ban he told Dal-gan was defeated 33-18 on the home floor. The last of the pre-season games was with Youngstown Y. M. C. A. college at New Wilmington. The Titans won handily by a 48-11 score.

George Cook, the Australian, and Knockout Christner, Akron "rubber man," will box 10 rounds Wednesday night at Youngstown. Oke Okeson, a Swede pal of Red Jadaberg, tackles K. O. Huske, Elmer Badger, New Castle, meets Rus Powers and Young Sapientia. Zellenopel, flings gloves with Young Ketchell.

Mrs. R. Pollard's Gold Mint, paying $20.00 for a $2 ticket, was a handy winner of the Hopedale purse at Jefferson park yesterday. Mrs. F. P. Letellier, The Southerner's second and H. P. Whitney's Chimney Sweep was third while Old Dutch, the favorite, pulled up in last position.

The basketball stars who won en-able records at Grove City will end their Crimson career tonight, when Grove City plays Duquesne at Grove City. They are Captain John Ryan and Marcus Rankin.

The Gerson Jeweler, fast local basketball, members of the Jewish league at Youngstown, will play the strong Blumberg Plumbers in a league battle at Youngstown on Wednesday night. The Plumbers have had tough luck to date but hope to come through with a victory over the locals.

Coach Keith Van Fossan is confident that his boys will be able to take the measure of the Plumbers. The locals were idle last week in the Jewish league.

All players should report tomorrow night at 7:15 o'clock at the Y. M. C. A. for the trip to Youngstown. The game starts at 8 o'clock. The second game is between the Warren team and the Rhodans.

THESE BIG ITALIAN GIANTS LIKE CARNERA ARE CLEANING UP THEIR OPPONENTS IN SUCH SHORT ORDER SOMETHING WILL HAVE TO BE DONE ABOUT GIVING THE PUBLIC A RUN FOR THEIR MONEY.

Friedman May Meet Paolina

Other Choice Battles Offered To Emmett Rocco's Opponent

DICK EVANS TO BOX JADABERG

Al Friedman, the Harvard graduate, who laid aside a chemist's degree to adopt boxing as a quick route to fame with its resultant monetary reward today is sitting pretty and it would not be in the least surprising were he soon to be fistfing with the cream of the land, as out of the Friedman-Griffith's encounter Friday night at Boston has come some lucrative offers. In fact Mr. Friedman's boy Al has been asked to fight Paolina, the Basque woodchopper, Johnny Risko, the Cleveland dough-mixer, Jim Maloney, the Trisman's delight and Primo Carnera, the biggest money-getter since P. T. Barnum dolled up a colored man and called him a wild man from Borneo.

Yes, Sir, Mr. and Mrs. Fight Fan, this Al Friedman certainly captured the "gravey" when he sent the cobwebs creeping through Tuffy Griffith's head and had not the bell sounded when it did in the seventh chapter Mr. Griffith's whom Jack Sharkey is alleged to have refused to fight at Miami, might have been stretched as cold as a piece of "fat-back" in our butcher's frigidaire.

Having had Friedman under contract for several weeks the Harvard graduate-heavyweight telegraphed he would be tickled to take on Emmett Rocco, the Lawrence county pride, mentioning incidentally "I have several scores to settle and St. Patrick's night is a splendid time for us to settle it." He didn't explain the "scores" but we happen to know what they are and they're herewith passed on for fans consumption.

1—Some time ago they fought at Centennial field. Both were new in the game. Rocco was given the decision and Friedman made a sour grimace when the vote was announced.

2—Later they battled at Cleveland and Friedman was given the decision. Rocco took his turn in turning up his upper lip.

3—Ed Keeley who fought and lost by a technical knockout to Rocco here recently, happens to be one of Mr. Friedman's best training partners.

Evans, R. Jadaberg, Birmingham's Chicago was him to fight Risko. New York desires Al to battle Paolina and Boston will be satisfied with him boxing either Carnera or Maloney. Friedman would lose a lot of felt were he to drop a decision to Rocco. And Rocco, eager to ascend the ladder and clutch a lot of money hopes to stretch Friedman like a rag carpet.

The Monday night embroglio isn't going to be an ordinary fistic fracas. For rank it steps out in front of the shows that are being staged in various parts of the country. Friedman and Rocco are a couple of high priced pugilistic babies, and no ordinary "gate" is going to pay the freight. The promotion will cost around a trio of thousands.

But Rocco, a local idol, has a good chance to get back in the limelight by beating Friedman. It is a leadpipe cinch that Friedman isn't going to permit the Ellwood citizen to turn in a knockout if he can prevent it. Such would be Friedman's demise, pugilistically in view of the offers to fight the boys who romp in the biggest of the fight arenas.

A choice six round semi-final between Dick Evans, Youngstown and Red Jadaberg, Jamestown, has been arranged. It's an elimination match. The last time Dick fought here he met Henry Firpo. He was as cautious as a crippled gentleman trying to cross a street. Jadaberg put the skids to George Perotta recently and Dick shouted he would like to meet him.

Well, he's getting his chance and if he doesn't make good, it will mean the backwash for Dick. Jadaberg, mid-dweight champion of Sweden and half a dozen other countries where fighters are as scarce as hen's teeth, wants to get another whack at Henry Firpo. The only chance he has is by knocking Evans cold.

Frankie Lands, this city, tackles Don Morse, Jamestown, N. Y. at 122 pounds and Tommy Arnold and Billy Murphy, both of New Castle, will box at 145.

O'Donovan Back In School Again

Disabled Titan Floor Leader Back In School With Right Leg In Cast

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., March 11.—After spending three days at the Jameson Memorial hospital, New Castle, Captain Glenn O'Donovan, injured court leader, is back at college with his right leg in a cast. O'Donovan broke a cartilage in his right knee and also has a broken blood vessel in his right leg. His leg will be kept in a cast for three or four weeks. In the meantime, O'Donovan will have to use crutches to get to classes.

Another Trojan Flash

On the authority of Charley Borah, his immediate predecessor as super-sprinter at the University of Southern California, Frank Wykoff, glittering "Glendale Glider," should reach his speed maximum this season. In early February trials, that Pacific school-boy wonder did the hundred in 9.4-5 and the two-twenty in 22.

Borah proclaims that "Wykoff is faster than ever from the starting holes; barring accident or illness, he is likely to win a national sprinting championship this year."

Incidentally—but most important of all to his coach, the veteran Dean Cromwell—Wykoff is the leading ace of the U. S. C. track team. He will be university's hope in the dual meet with Stanford, April 12. On that occasion, he is scheduled to match strides with Hee Dyer, Card favorite.

Red And Black Team Holds Long Scrimmage

Coach Bridenbaugh Sends Local High Team Through Long Workout Monday

New Castle Enters Semi-Finals Against Duquesne-North Braddock Winner

Coach Phil Bridenbaugh of the New Castle high school undefeated basketball team wants that W. P. I. A. L. tourney cup judging from the way he drills his cohorts daily. Last night at the Senior high school gymnasium he sent the first stringers against the scrubs in a scrimmage which lasted over one hour. The reason is that he wants his passers to be in the best of condition for Saturday night when the Red and Black team enters the semi-finals at the Pitt Stadium against the winner of tonight's game between Duquesne and North Braddock. So far Duquesne looks like the probable winner.

In the workout last night the second team gave the first team plenty of opposition. The first team was made up of Hammon and Wainio at forward, Captain Alexander at center and Uram and McAuley at guards. The second team had Rowe and Shaffer at forward, Martin at center and McKisick and Cooper at guards.

Luther Rowe looked impressive in the drill against the regulars and managed to find the hoop several times as well as play a good defensive game. Tony Cooper also looked good.

Much is expected of this last next season on the hardwood.

By holding a scrimmage Coach Bridenbaugh is able to see the things that do not make the team function right. The boys will hold workouts until Friday night when they will conclude practice with a light workout. The first team in the workout looked fairly good.

Tonight the first string team will go to Pittsburgh to see Duquesne-North Braddock in action.

New Kensington High Beats Aliquippa 22-21

Allegheny Valley Team Scores Ten Points In Final Quarter To Win

New Kensington scored 10 points in the final quarter while they held their opponents in check to defeat Aliquippa high school basketball team in the second round of the W. P. I. A. L. race at the Pitt Stadium on Monday night. 3,000 fans saw the Coach Glick machine make that "Frank Merriwell" finish.

The fourth quarter got underway with the Beaver Valley quintet leading 21-12. Lead by Whitey Wilson clever forward, the winners managed to score 10 points to win by one point. Aliquippa failed to score. For New Kensington Wilson and Dayoub proved the outstanding performers while Jones and Harden were the best for the losers.

Tonight one of the best games of the tourney will take place when Monessen favours to cop the tourney meets Uniontown who is undefeated. Among the spectators will be the New Castle high school undefeated passers who are resting until Saturday night when they play the Duquesne-North Braddock winner in the semi-finals.

The summary:
Aliquippa 21 N. Kensington 22
Jones Harden (c) F. Wilson
Milanovich (c) P. McCandless
Murphy (c) G. Dayoub
Choctiner (c) G. Ames (c)
Choctiner (c) G. Langhin
Aliquippa 4 6 11 0-21
New Kensington 2 0 10 10-22
Field goals—Jones 2, Harden, Milanovich, Choctiner, Markovitz 2, Wilson 4, Dayoub 2, McCandless 2, Ames 1, Choctiner 1, Langhin 1.

Substitutions—Marino for McCandless, McCandless for Marino, Markovitz for Murphy, Murphy for Jones, Jones for Murphy, Referee—Beggis Snyder Umpire Sam Hazen. Time of quarters 8 minutes.

For victories two points are counted and one point is given for a draw. At the present time there is a Lawrence county and New Castle checker tournament being held at the Y. M. C. A. and it is attracting quite a little attention. The tourney is open to everyone.

Checker Playing

In recent match games on the checker board, the New Castle and Youngstown teams have split matches. The Youngstown men won here recently 45 to 35, and New Castle returned to Youngstown several nights later and downed the Ohioans 38 to 42.

For victories two points are counted and one point is given for a draw. At the present time there is a Lawrence county and New Castle checker tournament being held at the Y. M. C. A. and it is attracting quite a little attention. The tourney is open to everyone.

NEW YORK STOCKS

Short Stock Market Session In Tribute To Taft's Memory

(International News Service) NEW YORK, March 11.—In respect to the memory of William Howard Taft, the governors of the stock exchange ordered all business suspended today at 12:30 o'clock, narrowing the day's session, not only on the big board, but also on the curb, cotton exchange, produce exchange and commodity markets to two and one-half hours.

In a heavy turnover of stocks, which set the ticker back 21 minutes in the first hour, prices of the active shares were extremely irregular. The "bull" market was reported to be solidly behind the new advance in the oil, motor-car and specialty stocks, in come of which large blocks passed through the market.

The oil stocks responded with higher prices to the 80,000-barrel daily decrease in United States oil production, as reported by the oil and gas journal, Atlantic Refining was again the leader in that group, moving up to the year's highest price at 46. The Standard of New York, New Jersey and California moved up to fractional higher prices.

United States Steel was unable to advance against the fairly heavy outpouring of selling orders, and sold off fractionally at 18 1/2. Industrial Alcohol was off 4 1/2 points and Vanadium Steel lost 5 1/2 points at 83 1/2.

Cotton recovered about 80 cents a bale and grain prices were fractionally lower in the early trading. Call money renewed at 4 per cent.

Irregular Prices In Market Today

Stock Exchanges Closes At

Of Respect To Taft

By W. S. COUSINS
International News Service Financial Editor.

NEW YORK, March 11.—Irregular price movements in the leading industrial stocks, under heavy trading in which numerous 10,000-share blocks of stocks passed through the market featured the abbreviated session of the stock market today.

Due to the order of the stock exchange governors, closing the exchange at 12:30 o'clock, it was necessary to speed up the trading pace in order to complete the business of the day within the time limit. The ticker roll behind nearly 30 minutes as trading mounted to a million-shares-an-hour pace.

American Can Up.

Principal advances were made by the popular industrial stocks, headed by American Can, a few motors under the lead of General Motors, Atlantic Refining in the oil group and Inland Steel. General churning of General Motors, Westinghouse and other speculative favorites was without special results and prices returned to their starting points. Simons was under fire and dropped to 571-8, the lowest price in two years.

American Can moved up 3 1/2 points to 143-4. Atlantic Refining topped 46 for the first time this year. Inland Steel rose 7 points. General Motors was pushed ahead to 451-4 for a new gain of 1 point in a heavy turnover, in which numerous 5,000 and 10,000-share blocks changed hands.

Despite this heavy turnover, prices of active stocks were for the most part unchanged at the close. United States Steel closed at 182, unchanged from Mondays' final price. Bethlehem Steel was also unchanged at 102 3/4. General Electric unchanged at 77 7/8. Anaconda Copper up 1-8 at 74 3/4. Radio up 1-8 at 52 1/4. National Cash Register down 1-8 at 78 3/8.

The motor stocks were inclined to higher prices and finished the day slightly higher. General Motors closed at 45 5/8, up 1 1/2; Chrysler up 3-8 at 38 7/8; Packard up 3-4 at 22 3/8.

Vanadium sustained a net loss of 3 3/8 at 85 1/8; Simons was down nearly 5 points at 57, and Industrial Alcohol down 7 at 112.

Stock sales on the big board totaled 2,635,500 shares, including the inactives.

Reichstag Passes Debt Funding Plan

(International News Service)

BERLIN, March 11.—The German Reichstag today passed, with a ringing vote, the German-American debt funding agreement negotiated by Dr. Jacob Gould Schurmann just prior to his retirement as American ambassador to Germany.

The agreement provides for the payment of Germany's share of reparations and delinquent costs for maintaining the American army of occupation on the Rhine immediately after the armistice, as separate and distinctly apart from the payments to the other allied creditor nations, provided for in the Young plan.

Detroit Girl Is Suicide Victim

(International News Service)

DETROIT, Mar. 11.—Shakespearean tragedies, particularly those grimmer passages dealing with suicide, were given today as the reason for 17 year old Lena Aelling, a high school student to take her own life by thrusting her head in the oven of a gas stove.

William Hesse, a brother-in-law who made his home with Lena and her mother said Lena had been reading some of Shakespeare's works lately and was interested in the passages of suicides.

Erlanger's Alleged Common-Law-Wife To Fight For Millions

Mrs. Charlotte Leslie Fiscal, Claims She Was Common-Law-Wife To Theatrical Magnate

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Mar. 11.—The nationwide theatrical enterprises of the late Abraham Lincoln Erlanger will go on as heretofore, it was announced today at the Erlanger offices.

Control of the properties of the "Napoleon of the Theatre" virtually passed into the hands of Mitchell Erlanger, brother of the deceased and his two sisters, Miss Ray Erlanger and Mrs. Caroline Bergman. These three were left practically the entire $75,000,000 estate of the theatrical producer "share and share alike" under the provisions of his will.

Following the filing of the document, Max D. Steuer, counsel for Mrs. Charlotte Leslie Fiscal, who claims to be the common-law widow of Abraham Erlanger, declared that his client would continue to "fight for all her rights."

However, it was reported today that the heirs to the Erlanger fortune were anxious to avoid court action, if possible. Whether of not adjustment of the claim by Mrs. Fiscal will be made out of court remained to be seen. Neither side would comment on the report today.

Erlanger in his will specifically declared he was "unmarried." The name of Mrs. Fiscal was not mentioned.

NEW YORK, March 11.—The barograph indicating that Miss Elinor Smith, famous girl flyer, had set a new women's altitude record yesterday, today was dispatched to Washington, D. C., for official checking.
The barograph, installed by Carl

Schneider, official observer for the national aeronautical association registered a height of more than 30,- 000 feet. It is expected that official confirmation of the record will be forthcoming in two or three days.

Miss Smith set the unofficial record in a Bellanca six place cabin monoplane powered by a 300-horsepower
Wright whirlwind motor.

Parents-Teachers Oppose Move To Drop Kindergartens

Executives of the parent teachers organization of the city in conjunction with the executives of the Federation of Women's Clubs will present to the board of education at its meeting Wednesday night, a request that the board in its effort at economy in the operation of the school system, refrain from eliminating the kindergarten schools.

It will be indicated that these organizations felt that such a move is a backward step and that economy should be considered and be put into effect from other angles instead of eliminating one of the believed essentials of the school system.

At a meeting of the executives of the Parent-Teachers Associations of the city and the executives of the Federation of Women's club held at the Y. W. C. A. Monday afternoon, a resolution was adopted asking that the Kindergarten be retained as a part of the instruction of the local school system and that if, in the interests of economy, it must be dropped during the coming term, that it be only a temporary move and not a move that is to be made permanent.
This resolution will be presented to the board of education at its meeting Wednesday evening.

Americans Firm Regarding Policy At Naval Parley

America Will Not Join Any Pact Of Political Nature With France

(International News Service)

LONDON, Mar. 11.—No matter what the consequences may be, the United States will flatly and definitely refuse to join in any consultative or any other kind of a political pact as an inducement to France to reduce her tonnage demands, it was learned from a highest authoritative source here today.

The American delegation to the five-power naval parley is absolutely united in this stand. The other four delegations have been fully acquainted with the American attitude, and there is not the slightest question in the mind of any statesman at the conference as to how the United States regards the controversial security pact.

The American delegation, it was learned, will maintain this attitude even at the risk of making a five-power treaty at London impossible.

The delegation is not opposed to consultative agreements in principle, but insists that they be purely technical in nature.

FORT MYERS, Fla., March 11—

er of the world champion Athletics from Vinton, Ia., is to be married this afternoon. He will wed Miss Helen
F. B. Bennett of Philadelphia, at St.
Francis Catholic church, the Rev.

The wedding is the culmination of a romance that began eight years ago back in 1922 when Miller first joined the Athletics. Miss Bennett a graduate of the Friends Select School, Philadelphia, had never been interested in baseball until she met "Bing."

From that time on, however, she became a baseball enthusiast and saw practically every game her fiancé play in Philadelphia.

Ed Rommel, close friend of Miller and one of the mainstays of the athletics pitching staff, will be the best man, and Mrs. Rommel will act as matron of honor.

Miller, whose name is Edmund Miller, is 35 years of age.

CLEVELAND, March 11.—Merger of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube company, with the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, will probably fail.
This conclusion was arrived at today when a check of holders of large blocks of stock in the Youngstown Co.
revealed that supporters of the consolidation would probably be unable to round up sufficient stock to vote the merger through.

So fine is this car that a year or so of use does not perceptibly detract from any of its splendid qualities. Lincoln owners are often men who can, and do, provide the best professional care for their cars. Sometimes such well-kept cars are available at very attractive prices from Lincoln dealers. The wisdom of investing in such a motor car is quite evident, and shrewd buyers are quick to take advantage of the opportunity.

A few such Lincolns are new to be seen on our floor. Every one is in perfect mechanical condition.
We are always glad to demonstrate them to you, without the slightest obligation. Drop in today.
